REDS USE WOMEN AGAINST ARMOR

Allies Exact Heavy Toll In Highlands; Heavy Action 28 Miles Outside Saigon

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON — A force of 300 Americans threw back an onslaught by 1,000 to 1,500 North Vietnamese armed with flamethrowers in a four hour battle in the Central Highlands today. The GIs killed 135 enemy troops and lost 19 dead and 51 wounded.

Troops of the U.S. 4th Division were awakened by Communist soldiers overrunning their perimeter before a shot was fired. The Americans fought back with rifles and grenades and, backed by American air power, drove the Communists back.

The battle began before dawn against the U.S. firepost 15 miles west of Kontum City and 12 miles from the Cambodian border. In the initial attack the North Vietnamese captured one U.S. artillery piece but never had a chance to use it.

In another battle near the village of Trang Bang, 28 miles northwest of Saigon, spokesman said American and South Vietnamese troops killed 243 Viet Cong in two days of fighting. This raised to more than 1,700 the number of Communists killed in Operation Resolved to Win.

At least six women took part in an assault by Viet Cong troops on an American armored column rushing to reinforce the key district town of Trang Bang, military officers said today.

Vietnam Village Needs Elephants

SAIGON (UPI)—All for the want of a three-ton elephant or two, American and South Vietnamese forces today stand to lose a little village they have labored long to keep out of Viet Cong hands.

Tra Bong desperately needs two elephants to haul timber over the rough terrain around the sleepy valley hamlet. Machines have been tried and failed.

The villagers say that without the elephants they will lose their only industry, a sawmill installed last year with help by U. S. Army Special Forces.

Capt. Scott Gantt, 29, of Cross City, Fla., a Green Beret, told United Press International the sawmill loss would force about 400 families to leave Tra Bong. In would come the Viet Cong.

The berets went to work. With U. S. government aid Gantt bought two elephants for $590 at Ban Don. But Ban Don is 170 miles southwest of Tra Bong, located in an isolated valley on South Vietnam's central coast, a guerrilla hunting ground.

The problem: how to move two elephants to Tra Bong, not only through Viet Cong jungle but through miles of military red tape?

A land trip would be too long, too dangerous for Jumbo. The Viet Cong controls the only road into Tra Bong. Boat? Too slow, and, besides, elephants get seasick and even big sampans are not made for green pachyderms. U.S. Marines offered to come to the rescue.

They would ferry the elephants to Tra Bong from Chu Lai, 20 miles away, by helicopter Skycranes which can lift a small house. That still left the 185 miles from Ban Don over to Chu Lai, above Tra Bong.

The U. S. 7th Air Force said all right, it would haul them. Just so the elephants would be contented passengers, Gantt spent hours on transoceanic phones, calling zoos in New York, Cleveland, Ohio, and London in search of a tranquilizer that would put the Jumbos to sleep for the flight but not harm them.

Zoo men told Gantt he needed M99, a potent drug made in Hull, England. He ordered it. But the U. S. Bureau of Narcotics upheld the shipment until American officials in Saigon sent a "required form"

Mansfield Opposes Any New Troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield proposed today that the United States freeze its troop strength in Vietnam at the presently authorized level of 525,000 men to improve chances for peace negotiations.

In a brief floor speech as "a senator from Montana," Mansfield urged "a patient strategy —less destructive of the country and of our forces and less voracious in the consumption of our resources."

President Johnson, who is reviewing every facet of his war policy, was said authoritatively last week to be considering a moderate troop increase above the 525,000 figure. Estimates range from 10,000 to more than 30,000 men.

Mansfield said there should be no further increases.

This, he said, "does not mean it is necessary to surrender or

SAN QUENTIN UNREST

The Major Gripes: Sentencing, Parole

By DON BRANNING

(Second of five articles)

Speaking of the February work strike of San Quentin Prison inmates, Associate Warden James W. L. Park said, "We live in a social climate where people have to be heard." In the odd way of eccentrics, who often parody our values, "Beek," the editor of the Outlaw, seemed to recognize this.

There might have been more than one Beek, the nom de plume scrawled on the one-page, clandestine Ditto sheet which appeared last summer in the big yard at San Quentin and then at regular intervals until February, when the inmates refused to leave their cells for several days.

When the Berkeley Barb began printing excerpts from the Outlaw, it became evident that agitation was building up in the main line population of the prison. Investigation disclosed that the hard core of the Outlaw's editorial staff were members working in the prision hospital. Nine inmates, whose names were never disclosed, were transferred to maximum security at Folsom, and three more convicts were locked up in isolation cells.

Park says no one is sure that Beek was snared in the net. Even after the convicts' own Inmate Advisory Council had collected 3,000 complaints from inmates—disclosing that their main complaints are with that state's sentencing and parole philosophies — still another issue of the Outlaw appeared, signed "Beek." But it might have been an anonymous successor.

"That guy, as one inmate said of the mysterious pamphleteer, "Has strictly no class." It was true, as Beek himself admitted, that his stuff lacked class. In one issue of the Outlaw, Beek

Cucaro Work Figures In Bogus Charge

The state attorney general's office today filed charges of bogus promotion against a San Francisco art gallery which heavily promoted the sale of a Sausalito artist's paintings. The case centers on the worthless $52,500 check of a man who was sent to the mental hospital after writing it.

The attorney general's office asked San Francisco Superior Court to enjoin Cory Galleries from further promotion of the purchase of Pascal Cucaros painting, Angelique, for the sum by William J. Glanister, 64, who is now at patient at the Napa State Hospital.

The complaint also asks the court to assess a $2,500 fine against the galleries for "each act of misleading advertising" used in promoting the transaction with Glanister.

Supervisors Rap Commuters Tax

To Meet Alioto Monday

By WAT TAKESHITA

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto's proposed commuter tax is illegal and potentially damaging to Bay Area cooperation, the Marin County Board of Supervisors declared this morning.

However, at the suggestion of Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen, the supervisors decided not to "jell our thinking" today because the Mayor has invited the Marin supervisors to meet with him at his office at 2 p.m. Monday.

Each supervisor criticized the proposed 1 per cent tax on the payrolls of commuters working in San Francisco, but the main blast came from Supervisor Peter H. Behr.

'PATENTLY UNLAWFUL'

"The Mayor must know as well as his own city attorney that the proposed commuter tax is patently unlawful," said Behr. He quoted a section of the State Revenue and Taxation Code.

Aside from illegality, Behr contended that Alioto's arguments are not logical.

"The Mayor mentions police and fire service . . . and 101 ways in which residents pay for service to commuters . . . How many crimes can be charged against commuters for all the extra police services claimed by the Mayor to be needed? What about all this additional fire service. Commuters leave the city at night, start few fires indeed and commit fewer crimes."

Behr declared that commuters contribute substantially to the economy of San Francisco by buying goods and cars and eating lunch and dinner in the city.

RATES COMPARED

The Marin tax rate is already 70 cents higher than San Francisco's, said Behr. "The Marin commuter will balk at being asked to pay an additional payroll tax, so his counterpart in San Francisco can pay 20 per

Carlisle Declares Raise Was Listed

Supt. Chester G. Carlisle of Tamalpais High School District claimed today that a $349 a month raise for the district's director of maintenance and operations was placed in writing before the district board on March 7, 1966, although it is not reflected in minutes on file at the county superintendent's office.

Carlisle's explanation may be gone into at a special meeting of the district board, called this morning for 8 p.m. tomorrow at the district office at Redwood High School.

Minutes of the March 7, 1966 ,meeting include an "Exhibit A" listing employment and promotions of non-teaching personnel. Oliver R. Bonner is listed as "separated" as director of maintenance and operation, and as "Employed" in the same position at $1,350 per month — $349 more than he previously received. The "Exhibit A" on file with the minutes at the county office, however, does not include Bonner.

WRITTEN STATEMENT

Carlisle made his explanation in a written statement delivered to board members last night.

It says that he "became gravely concerned" in February, 1966, that Bonner was going to leave "because we were not paying him enough money."

"I say without equivocation that I shared this concern, on an informal basis, with all or most members of the board who were serving at that time," it continued. "These same persons were informed by me that I was making a study of this matter and preparing a recommendation to the board for the improvement of Mr. Bonner's salary position. I know that I received explicit encouragement from at least some of the members of the board.

SALARY DECISION

"By Monday, March 7, 1966, I had completed my consideration of this matter and decided upon the salary for Mr. Bonner which I was prepared to recommend. Consequently I had my secretary prepare for the board books that evening the revised copy of Exhibit A exactly as it appears in the official records of the board.

"I assert that Exhibit A, as corrected, was in the board materials before Mrs. (Gloria W.) Melbostad when she made her motion to approve the actions indicated by that exhibit . . . and in the board materials of the other members present. . . .

"Therefore, the official minutes of the board which constitute board action contain these entries and the preliminary unrevised minutes

SGT. GEORGE STORZ

San Anselmo Marine Killed At Khe Sanh

Marine Sgt. George W. Storz, 23, was killed in action at Khe Sanh on March 8. The day before, he had written his family in San Anselmo a letter saying that Khe Sanh was "a hell and a nightmare."

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Storz, of 219 The Alameda, San Anselmo. His wife, Mrs. Carla Storz, and two children, George, 3, and Ursula, 1, live on Carson Road, Woodacre. Mrs. Storz is expecting a third child.

The family of Sergeant Storz said that he served a tour of duty in Vietnam as a military policeman in 1965 and 1966 and had fought against being sent to the war for a second tour. His appeal was rejected by the Marines on Nov. 2, and on Nov. 20 he was returned to Vietnam.

The Marines ruled that sergeants with more than four months of service remaining could not be exempt from a second tour. Sergeant Storz, a Marine for five years, would have left Vietnam next month. He would have been discharged in May.

At the time of his death, he was a squad leader with the First Battalion of the Third Marine Division.

He wrote his family on March 7 that he had "dirt in every pore," and that Khe Sanh was

U.S. Pacification Aide Resigns, Flays Saigon Corruption, Waste

SAIGON (UPI)—Sidney J. Roche, a $25,000 a year U.S. pacification official who has resigned his post to protest a "losing policy" in Vietnam, said today almost every aspect of the American involvement here has failed.

"We are slipping backward," he said. "We haven't made any progress. The Vietnamese army is getting worse. Our logistical tail over here is wagging our combat potential and our pacification programs are really a bust."

Roche, 51, of Columbus, Ga., is a retired Army lieutenant colonel who had been on the planning staff of Gen. William C. Westmoreland in 1964-65. He resigned last week from his job as action officer of the pacification program's New Life Development Division. He said others would follow.

He spelled out his reasons for resigning in a 12-point memorandum submitted to J.N.W. Watson, chief of the New Life Development Program, cornerstone of the U.S. pacification effort.

Roche told UPI he was resigning to protest such things as 10,000 blacksmith anvils, winter flying suits and cement used for the patio of the province chief's brother-in-law.

All of these items and many more, paid for by the American taxpayer, are being wasted in the quagmire of Vietnamese corruption and U.S. inefficiency, he said.

"The average Vietnamese thinks we're damn fools," he said.

"There are 10,000 anvils in a Saigon warehouse right today," he said. "There is no use for them."

Roche said the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) imported the anvils and had long since forgotten what they were for. He also said large quantities of winter flying suits were imported and then given away. And he estimated half of the $450 million in foreign aid is taken by corrupt officials—including one who gave 10 sacks of cement to his brother-in-law instead of to the school for which they are intended.

California Poll Says Tax Favored

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Poll of Mervin D. Field showed today the "pay-as-you-go" concept of state income tax withholding is favored by a majority.

The idea is opposed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, but supported by Democrats and some Republicans.

The poll found 53 per cent in favor of pay-as-you-go, 39 per cent in favor of the present lump sum system and 8 per cent with no opinion or with qualifications.

Labor Backs LBJ; Nixon May Seek Soviet Summit

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has won promises of solid labor support for his re-election and left little doubt he intends to seek another term.

"We do intend to stand here as long as we can stand here," he said last night, "and fight for what is right."

Johnson dropped the hint on his political plans during an unannounced visit to the second annual Farm Policy and Rural Life conference.

The promises of labor support came earlier at a legislative conference of several thousand AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades delegates.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said the 14-million-member labor federation will support Johnson for re-election despite his Vietnam war policy critics.

"I don't think we're going to turn our back on a friend," Meany said. "Labor will discharge its obligations."

In Boston, the Christian Science Monitor says former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, if elected president, will seek immediately to arrange a summit meeting with the Russians on the Vietnam war.

The assertion, in a Washington dispatch from Godfrey Sperling Jr., the Monitor's staff correspondent in the capital, was attributed to "sources informed on Nixon planning."

The dispatch said Nixon "does not intend to escalate the United

Hussein Pressed

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — Jordanian public leaders have put heavy pressure on King Hussein to offer official backing to guerrillas fighting Israeli forces in occupied areas of Jordan, informed sources said today.

Hussein met with 150 military and civilian leaders yesterday. The source said speakers in the meeting rose to demand support for the king and his government for the resistance movement across the River Jordan.

Hussein, the sources said, replied that he would welcome government cooperation with the guerrillas but would not tolerate their becoming a "state within a state."

Phone Strike Set

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Contract negotiators in the communications industry worked today under an April 12 deadline for the first nationwide telephone strike in 21 years.

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America (CWA), said in announcing the strike deadline yesterday that some 165,000 workers would be affected initially, but automation would keep most of the nation's phones working although service would be slowed.

Beirne said he was pessimistic about reaching agreement with Bell System telephone companies, including the Western Electric Co., in time to avert the strike.

Radioactive Matter Is Leaked By Blast

NEVADA TEST SITE (UPI) —A "small amount" of radioactive matter which leaked into the atmosphere following detonation of an underground nuclear device is not expected to go beyond the boundaries of the test site.

The low yield nuclear device was exploded yesterday at the bottom of a 900-foot shaft at Frenchman Flat. The Atomic Energy Commission said the test had a maximum force equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT.

On the other end of the scale, a major general was authorized to have seven horses in wartime —but only three in peacetime.

Panama Showdown

PANAMA CITY (UPI)—Panama's two rival presidents faced a test of power today over a call for a special meeting of the National Assembly.

One, Max Delvalle, ordered the Assembly to meet in the afternoon to revise the nation's electoral code.

The other, Marco A. Robles, had the support of the National Guard units surrounding the assembly building. But there was no indication of whether the troops would permit the deputies to pass their ranks.

Third Copper Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United Steel Workers (USW) yesterday ratified a contract settlement with the American Smelting and Refining Co. which could clear the way for striking copper workers at the company to return to work by Friday.

It was the third major settlement announced in the eight-month copper strike. A week ago Phelps-Dodge and Kennecott announced tentative settlement. On Sunday Anaconda settled except for its American Brass Co., subsidiary and its wire and cable concerns.

Teens' Smoking Rate Decreases

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—There are fewer teen-age cigarette smokers in the United States today than a year ago, even though the population has increased by 3 million, according to a survey by the Public Health Service.

Dr. Daniel Horn, director of the National Clearing House for Smoking and Health, an agency of the department, presented the statistics yesterday to the annual science writers seminar of the American Cancer Society.

The results of the survey, completed just a week ago, indicated a startling turnabout in the long-term trend for both boys and girls to increase cigarette smoking.

JOSEPH W. BARR
Treasury aide's view

Both Butter, Guns Outlay Held Costly

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Treasury official has told Congress the nation can't afford both guns and butter to wage war in Vietnam while pressing ahead with domestic programs.

Undersecretary Joseph W. Barr's assessment before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee came yesterday as President Johnson was telling a labor group: "We will do what must be done—we will do it both at home and we will do it wherever our brave men are called upon to stand."

Barr contended: "We are a great and powerful country and we can do a lot." But, he added, only "if we are willing to get down to the subsistence level like the Russians or someone else" can both war and domestic needs be fully met?

"I'll either get fired or impeached before I get out—and either one is not too bad, Barr told the Senate panel after declaring senators had an obligation to "vote for fiscal responsibility."

He said the administration anticipates a "back to back" deficit of $20 billion for the current fiscal year and the one beginning July 1 if Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge isn't enacted.

Following Barr's appraisal of the financial problems posed by the war and domestic needs, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said, "It takes the butter out of it when we reduce our standard of living." Barr agreed.

Mrs. Kenneth Goldstone is president of the Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation in Marin County.

Spock's View Hit By U.S. Attorney

BOSTON (UPI) — The justice department, in the first legal defense of the U. S. presence in Vietnam, yesterday rejected the contention of Dr. Benjamin Spock and four others that the conspiracy indictments against them should be dismissed because the war is illegal.

U. S. Atty. Paul F. Markham filed the government's memorandum in U. S. District Court in opposition to the defendants' motions to dismiss the indictments against them.

The justice department argued that there is no basis for the claim by the pediatrician and his codefendants that the U. S. involvement in the war is illegal.

Codefendants are Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., Yale University chaplain; Michael Ferber of Boston and Buffalo, N.Y.; Mitchell Goodman of New York and Marcus Raskin, codirector of the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington.

They were indicted Jan. 5 on charges of conspiring to persuade young men to violate the draft laws.

The government's brief said, "United States forces are fighting in Vietnam at the request of the government of the Republic of Vietnam. They are participating in the defense of South Vietnam against armed attack from Communist North Vietnam."

Arguing against a motion for dismissal by the defendants, the government said, "No court has ever held, nor to our knowledge has it ever been responsibly suggested, that the counseling and abetting of others to commit specific criminal acts are liberties protected by the First Amendment.

LBJ Aides Debate 'Racism' Stress In Antiriot Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wilbur J. Cohen, nominated by President Johnson to be secretary of health, education and welfare, says the White House riot commission's report overemphasizes "white racism."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has made a similar comment about the report. But the head of an administration antipoverty program contended racism exists in and has been encouraged by the white churches of America.

Cohen told a news conferenc yesterday: "I've thought a good deal about that term 'white racism' It bothers me a good deal, because I think you could also say there is black racism and brown racism and red racism."

He said he doubts that the commission's use of the term "white racism" is helpful.

Cohen said, "I wish some of the energy that has gone into rioting" had gone into efforts by the rioters for self improvement.

Driver Denies Count Of Hitting Officer

Jerry Don Forkner, 26, of Glen Ellen, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of striking a police officer Thursday, while being arrested for suspicion of drunken driving.

Preliminary hearing on the charge was scheduled for April 30.

Senate Tax Plan Chances Held Good

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate sponsors talked optimistically today of the legislative chances for their plan to tie President Johnson's proposed tax increase to a $6 billion cut in federal spending.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said he thought the Senate would approve the package he was proposing with Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla. Smathers said he thought it had a good chance for approval.

The measure, offered as an amendment to a House-approved excise tax extension, would include the President's 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporation income taxes. It would also require a $6 billion spending cut for the fiscal year which begins July 1.

Williams said he believed House taxwriters, usually sensitive about their Constitutional power to originate tax bills, would accept the tax-spending package if the Senate approved it.

Debate on the excise tax bill began in the Senate yesterday with Smathers urging approval of the measure. It would extend auto and telephone excises which are due to lapse next Monday.

Major Gripes: Sentencing And Parole

commented, "As I myself am semi-literate, we hope to employ the services of an accomplished writer in the near future."

But Beek, whooping it up for a February strike in his smudged newsheet, sounded the clarion call of the righteous con: "So I say to you, think, convicts, think. Be brave, be a man. Above all, be a convict. We can do it with unity."

A semblance of unity actually came out of it when the inmate council, going over the 3,000 complaints that were collected, was able to pinpoint dissatisfaction with sentencing and parole. The convict criticisms have since been forwarded to the Department of Corrections, and Adult Authority, which is the paroling agency, and to the appropriate legislative committee on Criminal Procedure of the California Assembly. Very little has been done about any of the recommendations of the committee, which questioned, among other things, the rehabilitative value of long sentences. In California, ostensibly at the spur of public opinion sentences have continued to get longer.

"The Adult Authority bases its long sentencing policies on the idea that the public has spoken," said Lawrence Harsha, 35, a long-term convict who is a bright, aggressive member of the inmates council. "But in reality, the public has never said a word. It has all be press releases from the Attorney General's office."

Many of the inmates feel the way Harsha does, that the public is really not that interested. But people in the prison administration feel that the convicts are being naive when they say the public really doesn't care about the length of their sentences.

There is evidence of both attitudes. A 1966 Harris poll showed that 75 per cent of those polled believed prisons to be mainly corrective, and only 19 per cent belived them to be mainly punitive. And even more of those polled — 77 per cent — believed that prisions should be oriented in rehabilitative, not punitive directions.

But a week after the strike, San Quentin Warden Louis S. Nelson, speaking to the Marin Federated Republican Women, was berated by a well dressed woman who wanted to know why he "didn't get tough" with the convicts by "taking away their televison and refusing to feed them."

Harsha, like many other convicts, doesn't find the indeterminate sentence the rehabilitiave windfall for convicts that it was supposed to be when California adopted it in 1917. Many inmates would rather have their sentences fixed by a judge when they are convicted, rather than go to prison for a vague period ranging, for an armed stickup man, from "five years to life."

"It's like living on the installment plan," said Harsha. "All the power is put in the hands of the Adult Authority and you live in limbo year after year. They want to keep your sentence indeterminate until the moment of discharge. The Adult Authority bows to every voice it hears, and the sentences get longer and longer."

Recently released statistics of the Department of Corrections show increases in the time for some crimes. First degree robbery went up four months in 1967; burglary second, three months; burglary first, one month; lewd act with a child, seven months.

Overall, male felons released for the first time by discharge served 15 months in 1967, three more than in 1966. There were 630 felons discharged in 1967, compared to 704 in 1966, 1,063 in 1965, 942 in 1964. Men re-paroled after return from parole with a new commitment served an average 35 months in 1967, compared to 33 months in 1966 and 1965.

There were 6,241 paroles in 1967, compared to 6,180 in 1966, 7,883 in 1965, 7,016 in 1964.

The slight statistical increases in most of the categories do not tell the whole story. "If the general statistical averages are up," said Associate Warden Park, "it meant that some individual convicts are doing a lot more time."

Harsha, like other convicts, feels that a man is entitled to legal representation if the Adult Authority revokes his parole and returns him to the prison under his maximum sentence. The convicts have asked for this in their bill of complaints, pointing out that there is no way to send a man to prison for the first time without giving him the right of legal counsel.

Harsha said that a parole is almost impossible to complete successfully for many of the felons. A man may not change his residence or move from the county without permission of his parole agent. He may not drive a car without written permission of his parole agent. He must not buy things on credit. He must "avoid association with former inmates" and with . . . "individuals of bad reputation."

"That's fine if you live in Greenbrae," said Harsha, "but how do you avoid associating with individuals of bad reputation if you live in Watts?"

The convicts object to the automatic re-fixing of their sentences at the maximum if their parole is revoked. "When they parole you, because you are a rehabilitated good guy," said Harsha, "They fix your sentence. You have served, say, three years. They fix it at six, and they say you have a three year tail. But when they revoke your parole, sometimes not for a new crime, but for a technical violation, they say you are a bad guy, and you go back to the maximum."

The convicts object to what seem to be inconsistancies in the Adult Authority tells them to get into group psychotherapy or vocational training. But the prison administration, complained one convict, says they can't get into those "good guy" activities. There's a waiting list. Sometimes, even doing the "good guy" things won't get the frustrated convict a parole.

During the February strike at San Quentin, one convict addressed a letter to Warden Louis S. Nelson.

"An interest in the programs is often turned away," he wrote. "The men grow increasingly discouraged and susceptible to negative thought. The Adult Authority may recommend to the prisoner that he do such and such. In many cases, the custodial staff doesn't feel he is ready to begin such and such.

"The prisoner is caught in a crossfire of inconsistent policy or decision making. The real purpose of the indeterminate sentence law is hindered. The San Quentin prisoner is a bewildered man. He is in dire need of a champion, someone of stature in the California Department of Corrections hierarchy."

THE BIG YARD—Two views of the big yard at San Quentin Prison, where no one is sure how much time he has to serve. Now that it's spring, the inmates line the walls of the cellblock in the afternoon to catch some of the sunshine and to swap rumors and complaints. The vexed inmates, who refused to go to work at their prison jobs in February, call California's indeterminate sentences "life on the installment plan."

Zephyr Money Plight Is Told

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Operation of Western Pacific Railroad's California Zephyr resulted in a loss of more than $1 million in 1967, despite four suggestions by the Interstate Commerce Commission to improve its financial position, according to the company's president.

The railroadofficial, Myron M. Christy of San Francisco, was the first witness yesterday at the opening of a hearing on requests by W.P. to abandon the Zephyr and by Southern Pacific to abandon its City of San Franciso.

The two passenger trains provide service between the San Francisco Bay Area and Western Utah, where they join other railroad companies for service to Chicago.

$660,000 Award To Former Show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The producers of the former radio-television show, "Queen for a Day," have been awarded $660,285 in breach of contract damages from the American Broadcasting Co.

After deliberating three days, a Superior Court jury announced the verdict yesterday.

Robert C. Temple, president of Queen for a Day, Inc., contended that ABC allowed the show's producers to incur expenses for the 1964 season although the network knew the show would be canceled Oct. 2, 1964. The company sought $1.5 million damages.

Queen for a Day began on radio in 1945 and moved to television in 1948. More than 5,000 shows were broadcast.

Report Due On Status Of Land

Directors of Marin Municipal Water District tomorrow will hear a report on an apparent refusal from the state to grant permission for lease of the old corporation yard in San Rafael.

The board meets at 1:30 p.m. at the district office in Corte Madera.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger said today the question of approval is tied in with legal matters pertaining to the district's suit against the state for a clear title to the two-acre parcel.

A lease agreement between the district and the Jumping Bean Restaurants has been awaiting approval from the state which claims to own part of the land.

Marin Elderly Held 'Lonely, Isolated'

By DAVID DIETZ

A director of the Marin Senior Coordinating Council said today that the elderly in Marin County are the "most seriously disadvantaged" of Bay Area aged because of a lack of low in-come housing and public transportation.

"We have people so lonely, so isolated and so in need that it's tragic," said Mrs. Vera L. Schultz of Mill Valley, speaking at a San Rafael conference on Marin County housing problems.

She said the biggest obtstacles to providing housing for the elderly in Marin were the hilly terrain and the high costs of land and construction. Also, she said, zoning and building code reforms were needed to build the special type of housing needed for the aged.

Mrs. Schultz said, for instance, that the elderly need specially constructed kitchens and improved lighting in their homes.

A former Marin County Supervisor, she noted that the coordinating council has seen the "elderly grow two decades older and two decades more dependent, but very little's been happening."

Of the 20,000 persons over 60 living in Marin, Mrs. Schultz pointed out, more than one-half have incomes less than $5,000 a year and more than three-fourths of these earn less than $3,000 annually.

Because of high land and construction costs, Mrs. Schultz said the county cannot depend on private development of housing for the elderly and that it must seek outside subsidies.

Also speaking at the conference, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin, were Marin County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker, Contractor Allen Kay and John J. Boyle, regional director of rent supplement and low income housing for the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department.

Zucker favored providing low income dwellings through a bonus system for developers. This would allow a builder to construct more units on a piece of property that it normally calls for, provided he makes available certain number of the units for low income groups.

He said he also endorses mixing housing with commercial developments, particularly for the elderly, and redeveloping older housing for use by low income groups.

Kay said the construction industry cannot develop a great deal of inexpensive housing because of high labor costs caused largely by the failure of construction unions to recognize technological advances.

States military commitment in Vietnam," and instead "he will seek to find ways to the negotiating table where he reportedly intends to impose a tough-bargaining climate."

In Portland, Ore., Sen. Robert F. Kennedy today called for a negotiated settlement of the Southeast Asia war which would guarantee the Communist Viet Cong "full participation in the political life of South Vietnam." in a speech at Portland State University "have committed acts of brutal terrorism." "But" he said, "they are part of South Vietnam and cannot be eliminated or excluded from its political life."

In Wisconsin, Sen. Eugene McCarthy drew the largest turnout of his campaign yesterday, a cheering throng of 15,000 in Madison.

"We are no longer conducting a children's crusade," the Minnesota Democrat announced. Among those present was the wife of Wisconsin's Republican governor, Warren Knowles, and former Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey, a Kennedy aide.

Kennedy rolled into Portland, Ore., on the crest of a wave of enthusiasm generated in a three-day swing through California.

Earlier Kennedy was mobbed and cheered by hysterical crowds in the riot-scarred Watts area of Los Angeles as he told the predominantly Negro crowd he would try to banish "injustice and discrimination and prejudice" from the nation.

olulu said the women were in the first wave of about 20 to 30 Viet Cong troops who charged the armored personnel carriers in broad daylight yesterday.

The Central Highlands fighting was about 275 miles northeast of Saigon and about 150 miles south of the A Shau Valley are where North Vietnamese tanks were reported yesterday in their deepest penetration into South Vietnam.

In Da Nang, Marine Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman, commander of South Vietnam's I Corps, told a news conference today the men in his area have killed about 30,000 Communists so far this year but he said the Communists still have the capability to strike again.

In the air, U.S. Air Force F111s made their debut in combat last night. The swing-wing Jets — fastest, heaviest and most sophisticated planes in the U.S. air arsenal—bombed army barracks and storage areas in North Vietnam's southern pandhandle.

Pilots of the F111s reported all bombs "on target."

the gallery, a half page advertisement in the Oakland Tribune, facsimiles of the advertisement given to prospective purchasers of Cucaro pictures, and other material.

The attorney general's office charges in its complaint that the gallery operator, Edward J. Cory, was in a mentally unstable condition when he accepted the $52,500 check from him on Jan. 18 for the Cucaro painting.

Glanister, after telephoning several false alarms to the fire department, was taken to the mental ward at San Francisco General Hospital early on the morning of Jan. 19, the complaint charges.

A nephew who had come out to San Francisco to care for his uncle had warned the gallery before that of his uncle's mental condition, charges the complaint.

Despite this, and despite the fact that Glanister's check was returned for insufficient funds on Jan. 24, the gallery continued to promote the allegedly record sale of the Cucaro painting to Glanister, says the complaint.

As late as March 7, after it had been publicly revealed that Glanister was in a mental hospital, the Cory galleries continued to send out brochures alleging that the sale of the picture had "catapulted Cucaro to the top of the list of contemporary western artists."

In other promotion, says the attorney general's complaint, Cucaro is referred to as "the next $50 million artist, the natural successor to Picasso."

Deputy Attorney General Clifton R. Jeffers, who headed the investigation into the Cucaro case, said his office received information that the gallery has been averaging one sale a day of $150 lithographs of the Cucaro painting.

"a hell and a nightmare."

Sergeant Storz was a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and attended the College of Marin before entering the Marine Corps. He has a younger brother, John, 19, and a sister, Ellen, 15.

He was born in San Diego, but had lived in Marin most of his life.

His mother said that the family has "always been opposed to the war in Vietnam." Her son, she said, regarded it as "something that was coldly mechanical on both sides, without emotion."

Lawrence Drops Out Of Fairfax Council Contest

Lawrence, who is a retired Army man employed as a civilian adviser with the Army Reserve, said his workload has doubled recently in connection with the stepped-up effort in Vietnam. Also, he is recovering from an illness. He said it is on advice of his physician that he is withdrawing from the contest for city council.

"I would like to throw all my support to Cornelis van Vliet," said Lawrence.

His withdrawal leaves four candidates in contention for the two Fairfax City Council seats at stake on April 9: Van Vliet, Stanley W. Little, Francis J. O'Connell, and Frank Haley Jr. Lawrence's name will still appear on the ballots, which have already been printed.

Trustees Given $361,000 Budget

A tentative budget for next school year totaling $361,000 was submitted to Lagunitas School District trustees last night by Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff. It is a $20,000 increase over this year's budget.

Most of the increase, said McCunniff, is a five per cent hike in teachers' salaries next year. Salaries in the budget total $280,000.

The trustees will discuss the budget at their next meeting on April 8.

The Ross Town Council campaign drew what is believed to be one of its largest campaign turnouts on record when more than 250 persons visited candidate Jack Carney at his Shady Lane home Sunday for coffee and cookies.

Carney said he sent out 780 invitations to Ross residents to visit anytime from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., and "the last one left at 4:30 p.m."

Supervisors Hold Off On Courthouse

Marin County supervisors this morning decided to take no action on last week's offer of $550,000 for the Courthouse Square by the operator of Stan's sports shops.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney reported that the offer, by Stanley K. Goldsmith contains "numerous contingencies" that must be cleared through the city of San Rafael. Maloney recommended that the supervisors wait until these contingencies and conditions had been discussed and resolved between the purchaser and San Rafael before the county makes any decision on the offer.

"Then you want us to put it over even though we may have strong feelings about the price?" asked Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen. Kettenhofen last Friday indicated he thinks the price is too low, and the fair market value would be closer to $700,000.

Supervisor John F. McInnis suggested that the county staff continue working to see if an excange of property can be worked out between the county and the city, which owns property on Francisco Boulevard.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer noted that prospective buyers complain that the city's restriction on lot coverage on Courthouse Square does not leave enough room for buildings. He suggested that closing the streets around the courthouse and converting to pedestrian malls, and using underground parking and access would provide more open space and still meet the coverage requirements.

McInnis replied that this has been considered but found unfeasible.

get out of Vietnam. It does mean we have to concentrate and consolidate the already great commitment which we have there . . . "

"It means a strategy designed not to conquer what was never Saigon's, even in its best days—that is, absolute control over South Vietnam—but rather to hold a strong and tenable position at no more than the present level of American involvement, for purposes of negotiating a decent settlement of the conflict," he said.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court will address the Marin County Support Your Local Police Committee at 8 p.m. Thursday in room 206 of the courthouse.

Judge Goldstein's talk, entitled, "The Bill of Rights in Relation to Criminal Prosecution," will be followed by a question period and will be open to the public, the committee announced.

Youth Is Booked As Suspect In Boxcar Burglary

Paul D. Cassidy, 18, of 26 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, was booked into Marin County jail yesterday on suspicion of the burglary of a railroad boxcar and theft of cartons of furniture.

Police said Cassidy and a 17-year-old runaway from Reno were seen by a patrolman going into a boxcar in east San Rafael about 5 a.m. yesterday.

At first they were arrested for suspected malicious mischief but an investigation disclosed 11 cartons of furniture missing.

Police said they booked the 17-year-old into juvenile hall where he told them the cartons had been stored away at points in San Rafael and Inverness Park.

Cassidy was held on $625 bail today for a hearing in Marin Municipal Court.

First Round To Mime Troupe

The San Francisco Mime Troupe won its first round in Mill Valley last night. The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission voted 4-3 to recommend that the city council approve the troupe's request to perform in Old Mill Park in May and June.

Discussion centered on the troupe's fund-raising methods. The troupe charges no admission for its performances, but passes the hat during or after the show.

The troupe plans to perform May 18-19 and June 8-9.

The commission also agreed to budget $825 next year to co-sponsor the Tamalpais swim Club.

explaining just why they need M99 for just what kind of trip.

The M99 arrived. Berets tested the drug on an elephant. The beast laid down for a nap. The Air Force decided it would safe to fly the friendly skies with elephants under M99.

But the plane ride was canceled.

Brig. Gen. H. A. Rasmussen, the Army's assistant chief of staff for logistics for the U. S. forces in Vietnam, said no. "Technical difficulties have not been worked out. They have not been able to solve them," said a spokesman for Rasmussen.

Tra Bong waits for its elephants.

"If they don't come, we've lost 400 families. Unless we get those elephants up there, they're quitting," Gantt said.

One of Gantt's aides said, "I thought this war was for winning the hearts and minds of the people. The way it looks, we're going to lose a lot of hearts and minds in Tra Bong."

cent less on his already lower property taxes."

Behr suggested that instead of slapping taxes and retaliatory taxes at each other, a better solution would be to have taxpayers of the region remit directly to regional government a percentage of their federal income tax, earmarked exclusively for use in the major cities of the region.

"We could surely spend part of this vast sum more wisely than is the case today, and eliminate the wasteful, witless game of grantsmanship to everyone's everlasting benefit."

Chairman Kettenhofen, urging that action be withheld until the Monday meeting, said "it behooves us to find out what the Mayor really intends. If the tax will be solely on paychecks of commuters, it would be discriminatory."

"Communication is more important than retaliation," agreed Supervisor Thomas T. Storer. Storer said he too had received word from the Mayor's office of the Monday afternoon invitation.

Supervisor William A. Gnoss declared that a commuter tax on residents in North Marin would be "unfair and would take food off their tables."

Supervisors John F. McInnis said he hopes a sensible program can be developed for the entire region rather than unilateral actions and counter-attacks by individual counties.

possessed by the county superintendent have no bearing on this issue."

As to lack of discussion of the raise for Bonner, as shown by the minutes, Carlisle said his "interpretation of this, two years later" is that the trustees found the raise reasonable "and therefore chose to approve the action without significant or extensive public discussion."

The special meeting tomorrow night was called on request of trustee Berton C. Jacobson, to discuss teacher salaries for next school year. This discussion was scheduled March 18 but postponed because Jacobson was absent.

Superintendent Carlisle said discussion of the Bonner matter might be at a closed session. However, trustee Bette C. Wallace said flatly today, "There will be no closed session." Closed sessions are permitted only for discussion of employment, dismissal or charges against an employee.

Mother Arraigned On Scuffle Charge

Coralie C. Nelson, 34, of Tiburon, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on misdemeanor charges of striking and resisting a police officer.

Bail was set at $500 and her case was continued until today.

Mrs. Nelson reportedly slapped, kicked and knocked the hat off Deputy John O. Goff of the sheriff's office, when he came to her home Sunday night to investigate a report she was neglecting her 9-year-old son.

Halprin Is Upset Over Ghirardelli Square Sculpture

"Remove the bronze mermaids, the turtles and the frogs"

Landscape architect Lawrence Halprin of Kentfield yesterday bitterly attacked sculptures which have been placed in the fountain at Ghiradelli Square, San Francisco, saying that they are out of character with his design for the plaza.

The bronze scultures by Ruth Asawa of san Francisco were placed on the fountain last week, giving what Miss Asawa calls "A feeling of serenity." Eventually she said the sound of croaking frogs will be piped from the trees surrounding the fountain.

Halprin, who had been the landscape architect for the plaza, does not agree wtih Miss Asawa, saying that he wanted the fountain itself "to be the sculpture."

Miss Asawa was commissioned by William Roth, owner of the square, to design the sculpture.

Girl Runaway Accuses Brothers On Narcotics

Two Kentfield youths were charged in Marin Municipal Court yesterday with inducing a minor to take methadrine and possession of marijuana.

Robert Dale Litteral, 20, and Harry Alexander Litteral, 18, of 812 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, were arraigned on the charges yesterday. They were to return to court today for entry of pleas.

The two were arrested after a 16-year-old runaway girl reportedly told Larkspur police that she had been staying at the Litteral home and that the brothers had injected her with methedrine.

Larkspur police and sheriff's deputies went to the home yesterday morning and reported that they found the Litterals and 5 teen-agers, living in filth-strewn rooms.

Seven teen-agers were booked at Juvenile Hall for being in a place where marijuana is used and being in danger of leading a lewd and lascivious life.

Deputies said they found both marijuana and methedrine in the house.

Robert Litteral was in a back bedroom, smoking a pipe which deputies said contained marijuana. When officers entered the room, he allegedly tried to throw the pipe out the window.

Deputies said the Litteral brothers reportedly injected methadrine into the veins of the 16-year-old and a 15-year-old girl, both of who had run away from home.

An inspector from the sheriff's identification bureau was called in to take pictures of the litter-strewn house.

Officers reported finding dog manure on the floor of one room. Cigarette butts were strewn over all the floors and the bedding sheets were either gray or black, deputies said.

The refrigerator was empty, save for mold and contaminated, left over food, they said. The stove was covered with a layer of grease and the oven had been used as a deposit for cigarette butts and garbage, they said.

Poland Ousts Seven Profs On Campus Unrest

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish Communist regime fired seven intellectuals yesterday in the biggest stroke of a purge following recent student demonstrations and street rioting.

The regime now has ousted 12 persons, most of them Jews, since disturbances began on March 8, growing out of student unrest over the closing of a play which had some lines construed by censors as anti-Soviet.

The latest move was further evidence of the government's intention to root out so-called "reactionary elements, Zionists and demagogues" whom it accuses of starting the trouble.

The Polish news agency PAP said those dismissed at Warsaw University carried out their duties from "revisionist positions." They were Bronislaw Baczko, Leszek Kolakowski and Stefan Morawski, professors of philosophy; Zygmunt Bauman and Maria Hirszowicz, assistant professors of philosophy; and Wlodziemierz Brus, a professor of political economics.

The seventh person dismissed yesterday was Prof. Stefan Zolkiewski, as head of the social science department of the Polish Academy of Sciences.

Youth Is Missing

Joseph J. Koeppel Jr., of 96 Scenic Avenue, San Rafael reported to police last night his adopted son, William Timothy Jensen, 16, had run away from home. When last seen, the boy was wearing a blue peacoat and blue jeans.

France Battles Against West's 'Paper Gold' Plan

BRUSSELS (AP) — With three days until the Stockholm conference that seeks final accord on "paper gold" as international credit, France called today for a conference to create a monetary system ruled by real gold.

"France, however, was completely isolated," Dutch Finance Minister Hendrik Witteveen said after French Finance Minister Michel Debre argued his point at a dinner here last night.

Debre told his colleagues from the Common Market countries that special drawing rights on the International Monetary Fund were not a solution to the world monetary crisis. The drawing rights are called "paper gold."

Debre said that instead, the official price of gold should be raised and a new monetary system set up with gold supreme.

Replying to Debre last night, however, Italian Treasury Minister Emilio Colombo and West German Economics Minister Karl Schiller said the two-price gold market and the system of drawing rights could function quite well.

If the drawing rights system is finally approved in Stockholm by the 10 richest non-Communist countries it could usher in a new epoch in international payments in which gold's role world diminish.

Suspect Nabbed; Order Violation

David William Cass, 33, of 138 Wolfe Grade, Kentfield, was jailed yesterday for suspicion of violating a court order which forbids him from entering his home.

Deputies were called to the home yesterday by Mrs. Cass, who said Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court has ordered her husband to stay away from the home.

Cass told deputies he was destitute and had no place else to go.

Coed Leaps To Death; Two Halted

Two young men were dissuaded from jumping off Golden Gate Bridge yesterday, but a 22-year-old coed plunged to her death after leaving a note in her car saying she had been a burden on others.

The body of Bette Lee Carson was recovered from the south tower moat shortly after she jumped at 3:50 p.m. She was a student at the University of California at Davis.

A note saying "Life will go on somehow for everybody that has tried to help me" was found in her car, which she had parked at the toll plaza parking lot, according to the California Highway Patrol.

'TALKED DOWN'

Later in the day a 22-year-old Sausalito boat builder, apparently under the influence of glue was "talked down" from a cable on the bridge by a Baptist minister.

Steven V. Martin, who gave his address as "The Ark" in Sausalito, was booked on suspicion of being intoxicated in a public place, according California Highway Patrol officers.

Officers said they found Martin sniffing glue as he walked back and forth on the cable, 12 feet overhead, threatening to jump.

Efforts by officers to persuade Martin to come down from the mid-span failed, but after half an hour Dr. Clarence R. Sanos, pastor of the First Baptist Church in San Jose was finally able to "talk him down."

FIRST ATTEMPT

Martin was to appear today in San Francisco Municipal Court.

Thirty-five minutes before Miss Carson jumped to her death, a 20-year-old San Francisco man was restrained from climbing over the bridge rail by Highway Patrolman Bill King. Charles G. Freeman was taken to San Francisco General Hospital for observation.

Marin County Citizens for Kennedy will hold a public meeeting for teen-agers at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow at 500 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, to organize youth activities in support of the primary campaign of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

Social Workers Local Wins Official Bargaining Power

Marin County Local of Social Workers Union 535 won official recognition as a bargaining unit by the Marin County Personnel Commission this morning, but lost its fight to include supervisory employees in the union.

The five-man commission voted 3-2 to exclude 11 supervisors in the Marin County Department of Public Social Services from the union.

Commissioners Margaret Lucas, Victor P. Reed and Hugh G. Marchant decided that the supervisors belong in the "management" category by their job descriptions and therefore cannot be included with the other social workers.

Commissioners Bella Aaron and Muriel Appenzeller dissented, arguing that the social work supervisors only oversee the work and procedures but cannot "effectively recommend" the hiring or firing of social workers.

Last Friday, with Marchant absent, the commission split 2-2 on the question of whether supervisors should be in the same union with social workers. Marchant, casting the deciding vote this morning to exclude the supervisors, declared:

"In my heart, I believe these people (supervisors) belong in the same unit, but under job descriptions, I can't see how they can fit in."

Thieves Take Antiques From Home

Deputies said the burglary occurred at the home of Chesley Bushmore on Edgemont Avenue, Inverness.

Missing from the house were two paintings, three Chinese vases, a roll top desk, two candelabras, a wooden chest, a chair, furs, linens and clothing, deputies said.

The Bushmores said they cannot place an accurate value on the missing items because most of them are so old, deputies said.

Other burglaries reported by deputies today were:

The theft of two rifles and three shotguns from the John Rossi Jr. home on Black Cat Hill Road, Nicasio. Thieves picked the lock of the front door sometime between March 19 and March 21, deputies said.

The theft of wine and liquor from Amelia Landucci's home at 106 Carson Road, Woodacre, sometime between March 19 and March 21. The thieves entered by cutting through a window screen, officers said.

The theft of a 1968 blue Volkswagen and two television sets from Milton Mohr's home at 500 Barone Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, sometime Saturday. The burglars forced a rear door of the garage, officers reported.

Hughes Seeking Two More Hotels

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Howard Hughes has given his representatives the green light to buy two more gambling resorts, the Silver Slipper and Stardust hotels on the Las Vegas "strip."

If the state approves his applications for gambling licenses, Hughes will have become the biggest gaming figure in Nevada in less than a year.

The gaming control board meets here tomorrow and the gaming commission convenes Thursday. Indications were that Hughes' license applications for the Silver Slipper and the Stardust would be allowed.

Auto Count In Marin At 107,113

Last year, the number of cars in Marin rose sharply and dramatically to 107,113, according to figures issued by the California State Chamber of Commerce.

In that one year, the figure increased more than three times the total increase recorded in the county the previous two years combined.

From the total 80,215 cars in Marin in 1964, the number rose by 4,000 in 1965 and by 2,000 in 1966. Last year, it shot up by 19,000.

Vehicles of all types — cars, trucks, trailers and motorcycles — totaled 130,090, reports the chamber.

Giving the statewide picture, the chamber said there are more than 13.4 million vehicles on California streets and highways. Of these, 10.1 million are automobiles.

Los Angeles County continues to top the list with 3.78 million cars. Coming up behind are Orange County with 869,356, San Diego County with 790,468 and Alameda County with 689,824.

Bills Would Bar Citizens From School Decisions

Two bills to keep citizens from knowing what their school boards are doing have been introduced in the current session of the California Legislature.

The measures are AB 961, introduced in the Assembly by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, and SB 592, introduced in the Senate by Sen. Clair W. Burgener, R-San Diego.

Both apparently stem from the proposal by the Cajon Valley Union School District Board in San Diego County. They reportedly have the backing of the California School Boards Association.

THE BILLS propose to make it legal for school boards to meet privately for negotiations with teachers. Stull's bill would permit the closed sessions to be with a district officer (probably but not necessarily the superintendent) who was designated to negotiate with the teacher negotiating council under terms of the Winton Act. Burgener's bill would permit closed meetings of the board to consider Winton Act negotiations which might affect the district's budget.

It is difficult to conceive how two legislators, elected by the people, could have so little understanding of the responsibilities of the people's representatives as to propose such measures. But no doubt they were influenced by the Cajon Valley trustees in their own county, and perhaps by the California School Boards Association. The latter organization maintains an office and lobbyist in Sacramento, ostensibly to represent school boards throughout the state.

Under the Winton Act, a teacher negotiating council may confer with the board on any matter affecting curriculum, textbooks, educational objectives, "and other aspects of the instructional program." To permit all such discussion in closed sessions would leave little to be transacted under the public eye.

To permit the board to meet in private with its superintendent or some other employee on such matters, who would then in turn meet privately with the teacher negotiating council, would similarly close from the public all possibility of checking on how its schools are run.

SCHOOL BOARDS already are far too much inclined to let their hired help spend the people's money without the people's knowledge. When a school superintendent can carpet his office and buy original paintings for its walls without first getting permission at a board meeting — as has happened in Marin — it is time for more, not less, public scrutiny of school district operations. Certainly it is not time for more delegation of their responsibilities by the elected trustees.

The local newspaper in El Cajon, the Inland Empire Daily Californian, was quick to leap upon the Cajon Valley board's closed-session proposal and point out its dangers and its disregard of the school trustees' responsibility to the voters and taxpayers.

The California Teachers Association in the past has insisted on open meetings with school boards for negotiations. We trust it will, consistent with that policy, oppose the two San Diego County lawmakers' bills.

School boards are not operating private corporations. It is time the California School Boards Association woke up to that fact.

TODAY'S YOUTH — TOMORROW'S HOMEMAKERS

A bride-to-be once exclaimed, "When I get married, I'll become another person!"

This is seldom if ever true. Young people carry into marriage certain long-standing attitudes and habits. These will be put to the test when they set up their own home.

Future responsibilities demand not only an increased capacity for love, but also a working knowledge of the qualities and skills necessary for running well-managed homes.

Your home can create a climate in which young people grow in their sense of stewardship toward the wider world. It's up to you!

Give them strongly rooted values . . . a sense of balance and judgment . . . a willingness to accept the challenges of life . . . an awareness of the needs of others . . . and a desire to share the blessing of Christ with their fellow men.

To the extent that you do this, the world will be a better place for everybody.

"Aim at righteousness, faith, love and peace." (2 Timothy 2:22)

Kindle in the hearts of young people, O Holy Spirit, a desire to change the world for the better.

Assemblyman's Whim Assures Further Pollution Of Lake Tahoe

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It appears another long delay wil be experienced in establishment of a regional agency for administration of affairs at Lake Tahoe.

The delay is encountered through failure of the Assembly natural resources committee, headed by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, to pass out amendments to a measure adopted last year by the California Legislature.

The amendments would have ratified the desires of the Nevada Legislature and prepared the way for the compact to go to Congress for approval, after which the regional agency could be set up and steps taken to preserve the "natural environment" of Lake Tahoe.

GOV. RONALD REAGAN declared "it is extremely regrettable that Mr. Z'Berg, for whatever reason, permitted legislation already passed by the Nevada Legislature to be killed.

"His action assures at least another year of pollution for Lake tahoe."

Z'Berg, however, who was the author of the 1967 measure creating a regional authority for California only, said:

"We're better off with the California agency because the lake covers California for two-thirds of its area, and has 90 per cent of the problems."

However, it was not made clear how a California agency could control pollution from the Nevada side, a function which could be performed only through an agency working under an inter-state compact.

THE NEVADA amendments which Z'Berg's committee turned down were submitted by Assemblyman Eugene Chappie, R-Cook, who is the assembly representative of the area involved and is well aware of the facts in the case.

The Z'Berg bill last year was sponsored by conservationists whose interest in the lake is primarily from the scenic viewpoint and is inclined to disregard private property and business interests. This has been successful for several years in halting development of an adequate highway on the west side of Lake Tahoe.

Mixed Emotions On Allen Case

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I don't know when I have been so completely torn by mixed emotions.

The story of Mrs. Evelyn Allen's troubles made me want to send her a small check to help feed her family, but as I read on, I became furious.

Are we now trying to make it possible for people with no means of support, and very small prospects of same, to live off welfare?

I'll bet if any California residents were this far behind on rent, etc., etc., we would be on a park bench.

Honestly, somewhere there has to be a line drawn. We all realize that we must help the poor and unfortunate people who are ill, aged, or even unable to find jobs, but must we try to take up collection to help people to come here to collect ADC?

There is a whole society developing that treats any sort of aid as "due them." Sort of a Social Security for unwed mothers, unemployed bums, and misfits.

I, for one, am sick and tired of working hard to help pay the rent for those too lazy to help themselves.

Parallel Runway Move Unfortunate

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The question of a parallel runway at Hamilton Field for commercial operations has surfaced again. This is unfortunate. It means that the board of supervisors and other public servants are to be distracted once again by this questionable project. With all the problems facing Marin County in this period of rapid growth and change, certainly commercial air facilities at Hamilton Field would rank rather low on a list of priorities.

Obviously, the homeowners of Bel Marin Keys have a special interest in this matter since we, along with most of the residents of Novato, would be the most inconvenienced by such operations. Though our concern might shade our view of the proposal, it does not close our minds . . .

We have in our files a letter of recent date from the assistant secreatary of the Air Force stating that such parallel commercial operations at Hamilton Field are not feasible now or in the foreseeable future.

The problem of attracting business to Marin, however, is a "now" problem and needs "now" solutions. Why wouldn't the extension of commercial scheduled helicopter facilities to Novato-Marin give businessmen the air service they need? Such a proposal is practical, could be instituted with a minimum of public investment and public inconvenience, could be brought into operation in the foreseeable future, and is more feasible and sensitive to needs of air travelers.

Plenty Campaigning By One Candidate

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As a candidate for the Ross Town Council I was quite interested in Mr. Anderson's article and I wonder where he gets his information. It certainly must come from the three incumbents because he states that there is very little campaigning going on and that is true of the three council members running for "re-election" which is funny in itself since between the three of them they have never received one single vote for councilman.

Mr. Anderson further stated in your paper that I was "put into the council race" by the Ross Property Rights Association. And again I wonder where does he get his information? I was not put into the race by anyone. My papers of nomination contained many signatures, none of them from members of the association, and I have accepted no financial help from the association or any of its members. I am running for the Ross Town Council because I feel that the council lost sight, long ago, of the average home owner.

The town council has functioned virtually unopposed for eight years in Ross. Their attitude toward any petitioning home owner is as might be expected. The members of the Property Rights Association are just a very small group of the home owners that are virtually afraid to go before the council with almost any matter.

If Mr. Anderson feels there is no campaigning going on in Ross please ask him to drop by my home and help stamp or address envelopes, we generally work until two or three in the morning. He is invited to sit and help answer my telephone every evening between 5 and 9 when I have asked every voter to call me at home to discuss the election, or he can join me in front of the Ross Post Office every Saturday morning from 10 till noon to answer questions . . . Yes Mr. Anderson there is real live campaigning going on in Ross.

Hernia Discussion Not Amusing

Having been a subscriber in the Independent-Journal for more years than I care to count, and having been a public official in San Anselmo for many years, I find your "Reporter's Notebook" of March 14 not in the least bit funny. Not even in good taste.

Fees in San Anselmo for garbage disposal were never predicated on hernias. The citizens could and should be reminded that every 10 years their disposal agent under franchise to the city has returned the sum of some $25,000. It could be more now.

On top of that, the gentleman in your article, Mr. Victor Vallerga, is a heavy taxpayer and has been for years.

I have seen the day when councilmen would try to band together a majority to remove from this honest man his franchise in order to split the pie with a neighboring agent . . .

I pay $2 a month for about two pounds of cans of scraps, and our men all of Lake County pay the county not a dime. . .

Yours is not good reporting, not even entertaining. It's serious business being conducted in San Anselmo and should be considered as such.

THIS STORY concerns a very, very rich man who built his own private nine-hole golf course. His wife played a round with a hired pro one morning recently and persuaded her husband to follow her in his electric golf cart. With him rode a professional gambler, who inveigled his host into a coin-matching game for high stakes while they bumped over the course, pausing every time the wife took a swing at her ball.

Man In 3 Camps: LBJ's Aide Rostow

By PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — As the outline of the Kennedy-McCarthy-Johnson political confrontation on Vietnam begins to take shape, the man to watch is Dr. walt Rostow, one of President Johnson's chief foreign policy makers.

Already his wide-ranging influence on the growing war debate is being felt in all three political camps.

In his key position as special assistant to the president for national security affairs, Rostow has tremendous impact on U.S. Vietnam policy, since he tightly controls the flow of intelligence and policy papers to and from the president and is in charge of originating new ideas on how the war should be controlled. He was an architect of the administration's policy of "gradual escalation" and "limited response."

ROSTOW ALSO HAS close personal ties in the Kennedy and Mc Carthy camps and is known to be in constant contact with their foreign policy advisers.

Rostow, for instance, was influential in the development of the blue ribbon commission on Vietnam proposal and the backstage maneuvering to get President Johnson to consider it.

According to certain administration insiders, the original idea for the commission came from a proposal drafted by Dr. Rostow and Carl Kaysen, director of the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton and a former White House associate of Rostow and one of those proposed by Kennedy to serve on the panel to study changes in Vietnam policy.

After Kaysen succeeded in selling the commission concept to Robert Kennedy, these insiders narrated, Rostow arranged for former White House Counsel Theodore Sorensen, one of Kennedy's chief advisers, to explore the idea with President Johnson.

Rostow then helped influence the president, during the White House meeting, to have Defense Secretary Clark Clifford discuss the proposal further with Sorensen and Kennedy.

After the Clifford meeting was set, Rostow contacted Richard Goodwin, another White House aide under both Kennedy and Johnson, now serving as an adviser to McCarthy. In their conversation, Rostow got Goodwin to agree to get McCarthy's endorsement of the commission proposal if the president accepted it.

Since the president rejected it, McCarthy was not asked to make any statement. When a Johnson aide leaked the story that the proposal came from Kennedy, the New York senator issued his statement that the commission idea was explored, "in Clifford's words, not as a proposal by either of us."

ROSTOW, ONE of the few Johnson aides that Kennedy has never publicly or privately blasted, has had a very close relationship with the New York senator since they met during the 1960 election. Both served as advisers to the late President Kennedy.

While President Johnson appointed Rostow to his present White House position, it was Robert Kennedy, as attorney general, who originally cleared the way for Rostow to come into the government as a top policy maker in the Kennedy Administration.

He stepped in after Otto Otepka, a former career State Department security officer, had refused to grant Rostow an "emergency clearance" for a high State Department post in 1961, as described in an Otepka brief filed recently before a department hearing officer. Robert Kennedy, then attorney general, took the matter out of Otepka's hands and President Kennedy appointed Rostow as a deputy to Presidential Assistant McGeorge Bundy. Clearance for this post was obtained through another security officer.

Rostow later was shifted to the State Department, where he became chairman of the powerful Policy Planning Council, which prepares foreign policy guildelines for the National Security Council, the governments highest policy planning group.

Otepka's brief also indicated that Rostow had had clearance withheld under the Eisenhower Administration by the Air Force and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Otepka, after reporting the 1961 Rostow incident to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, was relieved of his position and demoted. With the backing of all members of the subcommittee, he is now appealing his case before the Civil Service Commission.

In his public and private speeches, Rostow has taken the position that the Vietnam war will be won or lost in the U.S. — a decision that he apparently hopes to influence.

Suharto Looks To Japan For Needed Financial Aid

By PHIL NEWSOM

President Suharto of Indonesia, apparently confident that his position is secure at home, is taking to the road in search of more help in bailing his country out of 20 years of misrule.

First stop is Tokyo.

Within coming months other stops probably will include Cambodia, Malaysia, Thailand, the Philippines, Singapore, the United States and several European nations.

It is his first trip outside Indonesia since he led the way in the overthrow of former President Sukarno, who nearly wrecked the country with his fuzzy concept of "guided democracy," all but opened the door to a Communist takeover, and drained the country's economy with his so-called prestige projects. From Japan Suharto needs an immediate $60 million dollars to match a like amount already advanced by the United States.

ALTOGETHER, Indonesia figures its foreign aid needs for 1968 at $325 million, an increase of $125 million over last year.

The United States has agreed to furnish one-third of the requirements, with another third expected from Japan and the remainder from other non-Communist creditor nations.

Similar but separate negotiations are being carried on with the Soviet Union and other European Communist nations.

The money will be earmaked for use by Indonesian importers bringing in essential goods, for development projects, notably roads and railways, and for foreign technical assistance.

THE JAPANESE have not yet come through with their promised aid and Suharto fears that continued foot-dragging could lead the United States to cut back on its own assistance program to Indonesia.

Suharto's job will be to convince the Japanese that the magnitude of Indonesia's problems and the potential among its 107 million people as a market for Japanese goods make it imperative that Japan live up to its commitments.

AMERICAN observers in Jakarta believe with Suharto that 1968 could be the decisive year for Indonesia.

His big job this year will be to check the country's inflation rate, one of the worst in the world. It will be considered a real achievement if he can cut it back to 30 to 40 per cent.

Merchants Who Let Weeds Grow Run Down Their Own Business

Spring is really in the air and the way the plants are growing, one can almost see the difference day by day. This is true of the weeds especially.

One can readily tell which merchants along Novato's Grant Avenue have a bit of civic pride in the appearance of the street. They have kept the weeds out of the square around the liquidambar trees which were planted several years ago by the Novato Garden Club and the City of Novato. The trees where the weeds have been kept pulled add to the apprearance of the street. Those where the weeds are nearing knee-high show the merchant doesn't care what the street looks like in front of his business.

At the east end of Grant Avenue, by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Station, there is a concrete circle with trees in it. The Novato Junior Women's Club landscaped this several years ago, and since then, the young ladies have kept it weeded so that it always looks nice.

The little landscaped rest stop at the corner of Highway 101 and Grant Avenue was planted with a circular planter in the middle for annual blooming plants. Last season, petunias were planted. These old plants are still there. If they will continue blooming this year, they will make it a colorful spot. If they will not, they should be replaced with new plants by the Novato Parks Department. The Novato firemen kept the plants watered during the dry season last year.

FIRE CHIEF George Cavallero of the Novato Fire Department pointed out that again there is a move by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control Board to ban all open burning in single-family and duplex homes.

There are lots of prunings from trees and shrubs this time of year, as well as grass clippings, the chief pointed out. If these are allowed to accumulate and dry out, they become a fire hazard.

Some people cannot afford to haul these clippings and prunings to the dump, or there are other reasons why they let them accumulate, he pointed out.

FOR THE PAST three years, the swallows at the old granary beside the Marin County Airport have arrived ahead of the swallows at Capistrano, which arrive faithfully on March 19.

Peter Lind, who has kept track of the Novato swallows for several years, was out of town this year, so we did not learn when the birds arrived. They were there last Wednesday, but we were unable to find out if they arrived on March 19 or ahead of the Capistrano swallows again this year.

New Monsters Put Into Skies Without Necessary Facilities

It may be considered heresy by my peers, but I consider the SST, Boeing's contribution to out accelerated civilization — and the C-5, Lockheed's answer to the grandiose demands of our military men for a monstrous air cargo aircraft —the logical result of our megalomania which is aggravated by a fixation for big airplanes that fly fast.

The SST is designed to fly at supersonic speed of 1,800 miles an hour (a speed at which the outer skin will heat to 400 degrees F. — enough to roast everyone on board should the refrigeration quit). The C-5's capacity is 700 troops (or five Greyhound buses and 100 passengers, should anyone feel an urge to carry such a cargo).

THERE IS LITTLE to be gained by becoming embroiled in the debate bounced about by my betters for many moons: Whether the aerial giants should, or should not, be built. These arguments are now academic. The airplanes are, in fact, under construction and will be in operation in the near future, and that's that.

These Frankensteinian creations will soon be flying over our heads and landing at our cities and their impending presence precipitates vexing questions and is cause for vast concern. There have been few answers and even fewer positive preparations.

OUR TERMINALS and runways are, today, largely obsolete. They are seriously, dangerously and damningly congested.

Our traffic control problems are alarmingly acute.

The aviation industry and the government are compounding these problems by introducing this new equipment (and others as well) without a program to ameliorate the all-too-crowded conditoons.

Terminal facilities, including parking, vehicular arteries feeding to and from, ticketing and baggage handling are outdated and inefficient in coping with the ever-increasing passenger flow.

Runways are, in many instances, too short and with the increased weight of the new jets, too thin for the enormous stresses. According to reports, only about half dozen commercial airports in the country are capable of accomodating the SST safely.

AND AS FOR traffic control . . . here the problem is Herculean!

All pilots dread a midair collision. They may not speak of it to those outside the profession, but among themselves . . . among themselves they talk bitterly of their hidden fear.

Radar has done much to alleviate the congestion problem. But the needed technological improvements and the sophisticated management necessary to safety are not meeting the demands of present traffic pressure.

A visit to the radar control room at Washington National Airport or New York's JFK Airport will testify graphically to this fact. All controllers and pilots know how easily a midair collision could happen.

One small airplane, uncontrolled by radar, can bring down the greatest Leviathan of the air. Should it be the C-5, carrying five or six hundred people, the headlines will tell my story more forcefully.

Mayor Proposes Apartment Buy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — City purchase of the bankrupt Midtown Park Apartments for $2.1 million has been proposed by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

The deal would provide "instant middle-income relocation for a very low price," he said yesterday.

Rents in the 140-unit development at Scott Street and Geary Boulevard would be kept low with the help of federal subsidies, he said.

The apartment house occupies an area which was cleared of slumgs. The Federal Housing Administration foreclosed on the builder, Barton Development Co., after loaning more than $3 million on the project.

Foundation To Aid In Park Plantings

The Novato Civic Foundation will help the San Marin Improvement Association toward getting sod installed for a ball diamond this spring at the new San Ramon Elementary School, according to Edwin V. Grundstrom, foundation president.

The foundation will match one dollar for every two of the San Marin association up to $500, Grundstrum said. The San Marin group will plant 20 trees furnished by the foundation to make a parklike appearance at the ball diamond, Grundstrom said.

Massachusetts was the sixth of the original 13 states.

Indonesia Actions Leave Questions

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I wish to comment on Roscoe Drummond's "Indonesia's Great Contribution in Turning Back Communism," which appeared in the March 13 Independent-Journal. The title smacks of Maoism in reverse, and the reader is not disappointed.

There is no doubt that Indonesia is today more anti-communist than it was before the coup of Sept. 30, 1965, although some might balk at the phrase "radiantly free of communism."

However, I question several of the ramifications of Mr. Drummond's analysis of recent events in Indonesia.

In particular, it is surprising that he fails to mention the slaughter of an estimated 300,000 persons in the holy name of anti-communism. I wonder if he would condone one thousandth as many murders in an opposing cause, and whether he advocates a "Night of the Long Knives" wherever communism threatens to prevail.

Secondly, it is hard to accept Mr. Drummond's implication that our "course in Vietnam" prompted the attempted communist coup in Indonesia. Not even Mr. Rusk is willing to go that far in justifying our misconceived policy. One can only marvel at Mr. Drummond's simplistic view of the immensely complicated world situation.

Let People Speak On Vietnam War

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In campaigning for Proposition "A", the anti-Vietnam war resolution on Mill Valley's April 9 ballot, I have run into some very curious reasoning — if it can be called that. Some individuals object to the city council petitioning the president for a ". . . policy of peace in Vietnam and orderly withdrawal . . .". They argue that the subject was not a stated issue in the council's election and therefore there was no mandate. At the same time these same individuals are apparently content to entrust unchecked decision-making power to a president who did run on a specific peace pledge which he has consistently violated. Remember? We were not going to send American boys to fight for "the Asian boys" "We seek no wider war." Etc. etc. . .

What most people feel in all sincerity is an uneasiness, a vague, perhaps non-logical, seldom acknowledged or analyzed feeling that something is terribly, terribly wrong in this country, and that the something wrong is closely connected with pointless, fruitless, engulfing war in Southeast Asia. It is a feeling of hopelessness: if the war continues and spreads it will devour with its cancerous growth all that remains healthy in American society and quite possibly the life of the human species as well. . .

Under these circumstances a handful of ordinary men, non-professional politicians, operating at what was laughingly called "the lowest level of government," showed the wisdom to appreciate the feeling of the community and the courage to commit themselves to its expression. .

Granting respect and admiration for their leadership, it is still important to remember, each of us, as we go solitary into the voting booths on April 9, that we are there to express directly for ourselves our own true feelings about the war and nothing else. Not whether we approve the councilmen for their act, not for any candidate or any other issue, but simply and solely whether we are willing or unwilling to be led passively to destruction.

People Lack Voice On Civic Center

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In 1965, the Fairfax City Council decided to request federal assistance under the "701" plan, the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The application was approved, and the council turned the planning over to the Marin County Planning Department. The county plans to rebuild downtown Fairfax and also build us a new civic center. We are told a consensus of local feeling was obtained from six committies formed for this purpose. The opinions of 60 people! We "non-office holding" citizens have very little to say of our cities' future plans!

First of all, our council turned the planning over to the county. Then, in accepting federal funds, we put the federal government in the "driver's seat. . . "

Fairfax as required under the federal "701" plan must pay one-third of the cost of our new civic center, two-thirds to be paid by the federal government, could it be we are embracing a creeping form of Socialism? We can vote, we are told, as to whether or not we will accept the plans of the new civic center as provided by the county, and consequently the bonds to pay our share with, but cannot vote on location or type of building! A democracy?

Bring General Back To Save Congress

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Alarmingly enough, a clique of hotheads in Washington is suddenly and opening showing a degree of restlessness. Breaking out of a constructive 10-year rapport with events, a number of these senators are making so bold as to question the state of U.S. involvement across the Pacific.

Not content with that, they are making random observations and occasional gestures at the state of affairs in the U.S.

Certainly the quick and sure solution must be the pacification of the Senate, and now, before the crumbling process spreads to the other house.

No evidence of this malaise was present during and just following the historic occasion some two years ago when Gen. William Westmoreland lent his warm personality to their joint meeting.

Now, with success in the air like a great ambient glow and with a growing camaraderie between brown skins and white across the length and breadth of the war-purged little country; and with many capable hands and heads on the ground there for guidance into a new Century of the Common Man, it is suggested that General Westmoreland be returned to the U.S. — to strengthen the purposefulness of Congress and restore public confidence in its deliberations.

Plea To Restore Old Courthouse

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Thirty days from any given moment the walls of our old courthouse will be doomed to fall victim to the "sacrilege of the iron demolition ball." It is up to us conscientious citizens who believe in our American heritage to see that this does not happen.

Marin County is one of the original 27 counties that made up this state when it joined the union. Events that took place here helped decide whether or not California became a state at that time.

Of the original courthouses that were built in California during that era there are only four still standing. There are but three buildings still standing in the United States that are of the same style and architecture of our old court house.

There are those that say our old courthouse is not of historical or aesthetic value or old enough to be worth saving, but the only way it can get old or become more historical is to remain standing.

Statute 25373 of the Government Code states: "The Board of Supervisors may acquire property for the preservation or development of a historical landmark. By ordinance, it may provide special conditions or regulations for the protection, enhancement, perpetration or use of buildings having a special character or special historical or aesthetic interest of value." I might add that it is not up to the board of supervisors to determine this historical or aesthetic value.

In Statute 25351 it further states: "The board of supervisors may construct, rebuild, refurnish or repair buildings for a historical museum, art gallery or exposition building or for public meetings." The courthouse could be remodeled and restored to its original state and fill all of these purposes.

In four years our old courthouse will be 100 years old and I feel that with a little effort on the part of all of us we could work together and have it restored to its original state by that time. To quote retired supervisor, Mr. William Fusselman, "This heritage of ours should not be destroyed, but should be treated like an old friend that we wish to see around for a long time."

Dollar Crisis Long In Making

Editor, Independent-Journal:

President Johnson has finally come to terms (if only superficially) with the crisis of the gold drain which many critics have been warning the Kennedy-Johnson administrations about these past seven years. Predictably, he has reacted with panic and has proposed certain hasty and irrational plans such as releasing the last gold backing on our currency, increasing restrictions on foreign investments, taxing certain foreign travel and raising other taxes generally.

He has not really looked to the causes more tied to our international monetary crisis: inflationary deficit budgets in general and foreign aid specifically. The latter is a total loss in trade balances (and on almost any other criterion); conversely, the much-maligned private investments overseas have resulted in an increasingly favorable return of gold to the U.S. through profits. And the present budget deficits which weaken the dollar's value are ecen in contradiction with pure Keynesian theory adopted during our depression of the 1930s — to cover the deficits of troublous years with budget surpluses in prosperous times such as now.

Johnson is finally sinking in his mistakes and those of the ivory-tower experts who have tried to control our economy for the past 35 years. Sadly, he's taking us all down with him.

Reagan Sees Ballot Test Unity Threat

SACRAMENTO (AP) —Gov. Ronald Reagan says a potential challenge to his favorite son presidential slate in the June 4 Republican primary election threatens party unity in California.

But the governor labeled as "perfectly proper and fine" the formation of a national "Coalition for a Republican Alternative."

The coalition was assembled by GOP moderates who had supported New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as a possible presidential candidate. Its leaders denied it was designed specifically to stop the nomination drive of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"I don't think that is divisive," Reagan told his weekly news conference yesterday. "If it was, then you just can't have a contest."

But he said "it does seem kind of a shame" he should face a contest on the California ballot when the point of his favorite son candidacy is to prevent division within the party and that "someone now is going to create the divisiveness."

A group headed by James Wilcox, a Los Angeles attorney, filed its 86-member "free delegation" list with the secretary of state Monday. The group now must obtain more than 18,000 signatures of registered Republicans by April 5 to land a spot on the ballot against Reagan's slate.

REAGAN BEGINS SECRET VISITS TO MINORITIES

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Negroes and Mexican-Americans get a chance to take their problems to California's highest official as Gov. Ronald Reagan was to set off today on a series of secret visits to various cities.

Reagan told his weekly news conference yesterday that the informal meetings are "mainly for the purpose of ourselves finding out and getting suggestions, finding out what is working and not working . . ."

"It gives us an opportunity also to point out to them some of the things that we have in the works that we think are going to be helpful . . ."

Vet's Aide Tells Threats

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A top state official says he has been getting numerous telephone death threats for the past month but "I don't pay any attention to them."

James E. Johnson, director of veteran's affairs, said yesterday he doesn't recognize voices of any of several anonymous callers who have found his unlisted home number.

There were numerous calls last month — often daily — but "they've slackened off a bit now," he said, adding that there was no over the weekend.

Travel Tax Reported Dead; New Plan Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Ways and Means Committee was reported today to have scrapped President Johnson's overseas travel tax proposal and to be nearing final agreement on a "bare bones" substitute.

Committee sources said the panel would unveil a bill tomorrow that would include a 5 per cent tax on overseas flights and steamship tickets—similar to the current 5 per cent levy on domestic airlines.

Sources said the committee also would approve reducing from $100 to $10 duty-free exemption on goods brought back from overseas. The present $10 in gifts an American can mail home from overseas without paying a duty would be cut to $1.

The committee has been wrestling with Johnson's travel tax proposal since Feb. 5 and apparently could not reach an agreement on some form of spending tax for Americans traveling outside the Western Hemisphere.

Johnson proposed a tax for all spending over $7 a day outside the Western hemisphere. He asked for a 15 per cent tax between $7 and $15 in spending and a 30 per cent tax for all spending over $15 a day.

The proposal was attacked by educators, travel agents, businessmen, and others who complained it was too complicated and too difficult to police.

The tax writers had been working on some form of a compromise but sources said no agreement could be reached.

The Administration package was designed to reduce by $400 million the U. S. balance of payments deficit which amounted to some $3.6 billion last year.

The proposed travel tax alone was designed to account for a $300 million savings.

Use Permit Idea Given To Planners

The City of Novato can adopt an interim ordinance to control businesses by use permit requirement during a proposed downtown study. City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. old Novato Planning Commission last night.

The commission then named Eugene McGillicuddy, John Miklos and Wayne Hathaway to a committee to study what types of business should be so controlled. They are to reoprt back to the commission at its April 8 meeting, according to Warren Baker, assistant planning director.

The commission approved the Downtown Study Committee's selection of Sedway-Cooke of San Francisco as the firm to make the downtown study and apply for the Federal funds, Baker said.

The commission also approved the changes made by the Novato City Council in the sign ordinance, which will come up for final vote tonight before the council.

The application for a Denny's restaurant for Highway 101, south of Grant Avenue for Harold Butler Enterprises Inc., was approved by the commission, according to Baker, but the firm's application for a free standing sign 25 feet high was continued until the April 8 meeting.

No Contest Plea In Traffic Death

Manuel Ramon Damos, 29-year-old truck driver from Arcata, pleaded no contest in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of misdemeanor manslaughter.

He allegedly drove negligently Sept. 6, 1967, when his truck struck another on Highway 101, killing Mark Lee Hollars, a Novato milkman.

Damos has been sued in Marin Superior Court for $750,000 by Mrs. Hollars and her two children for alleged negligent driving. Co-defendant is the Simpson Lumber Co. of Arcata, for whom Damos drove.

Judge Hadden W. Roth told Damos to return to court April 19 for sentencing.

Span Discussion

Seymour Kashin, general manager of the Marin Transit District, will discuss legislation affecting the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District at a meeting of the Marin Citizens Transportation Committee at 8 p.m. Thursday in Room 413 of the Civic Center.

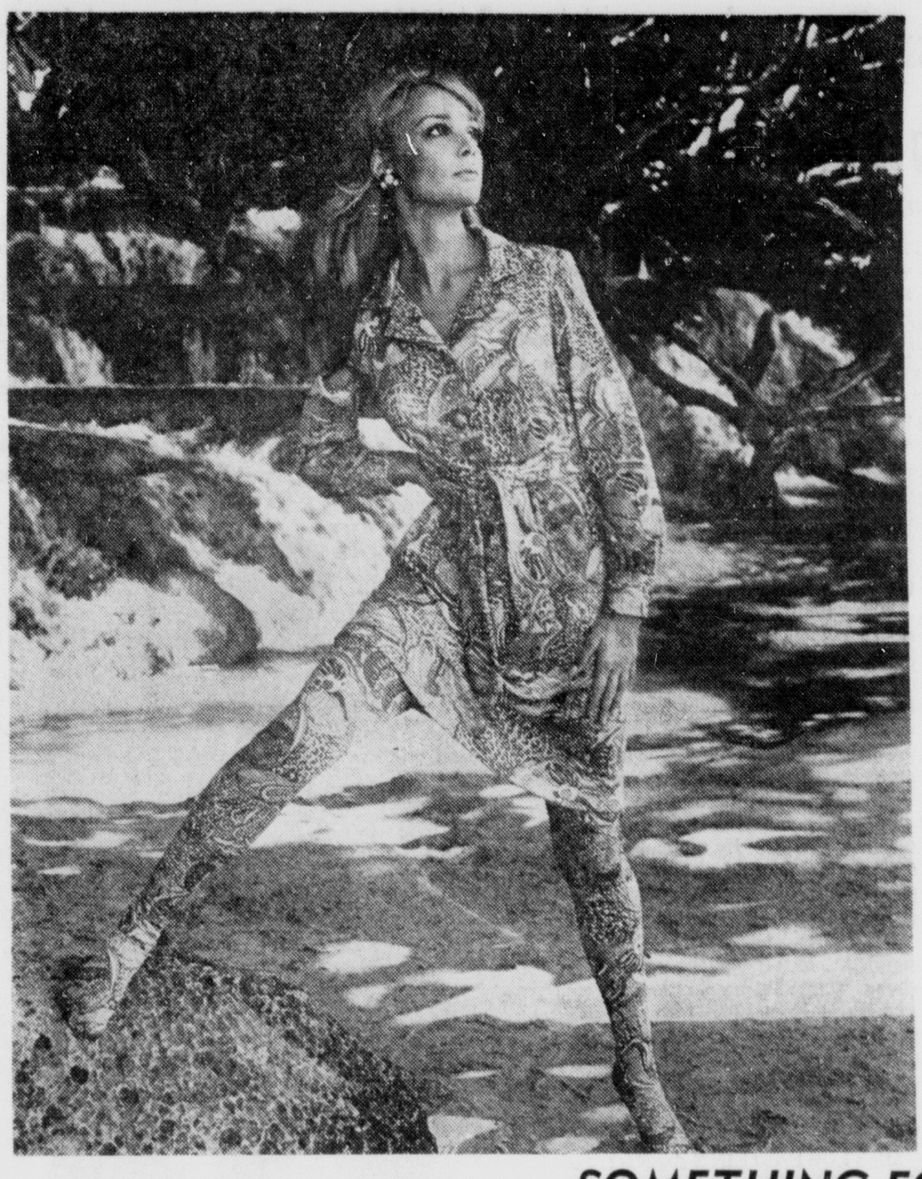
Mrs. James Wright and Mrs. William Wright, Pamela's future sisters-in-law, entertained for her at the James Wright home in Belveron Gardens. Guests included the bride's mother, Mrs. Fred Mantegani, her sister, Rita, her aunt, Mrs. George Mantegani, cousin, Susan Mantegani; Mrs. Glen Cable, the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. David Southard, Mrs. Armand Allegra and Diane Allegra. SOMETIMES THE aftermath of a feature story is as interesting as the story itself. . . After the story on Reed teacher Anna Womack's stay in Tupelo, Miss., as a member of a team of teaching advisers, many offers of assistance to the Mississippi schools mentioned have been received, and efforts to send school supplies and books are being organized in Marin. An international note followed publication of the interview with Mrs. Vincent Hallinan, national organizer of the Jeannette Rankin Brigade Peace March. The I-J article and the picture are being sent to a Swedish Women's magazine which is preparing an article about the Belvedere woman.



SOMETHING FOR THE JUNGLE

Global Problems With Hors D'Oeuvres

By ALINE MOSBY

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The world's troubles and what to do about them are discussed over hors d'oeuvres trays and glasses tinkling with ice as well as in stately conference rooms at the United Nations.

Along with the General Assembly and committee meetings, the party beat, too, has become work for delegates representing 123 member nations.

While diplomats spear meat balls with toothpicks at the daily social whirl, they canvass each other as to who is supporting what resolution. Many delegates feel they can work often better in the informal atmosphere of a luncheon, dinner or cocktail party than during formal appointments where the niceties of protocol have to be observed.

"This is not our social life, this is our work," declared the British Ambassador to the U.N., Lord Caradon, at a recent reception given by the delegation from Malaysia.

"Now over there is the Irish minister," he went on, with a wave at the clusters of chattering diplomats. "I must ask him about his vote on the Gibraltar question.

"And over there are the French and I must discuss Cyprus with them. Much of our work now is done outside the meetings."

RICHARD PEDERSEN of the U.S. delegation is all for diplomatic dickering at receptions. During informal contacts, he said, one can "needle people or joke with them which you cannot do in formal meetings. Also, you get to know each other."

As more areas become nations and join the U.N., so does the party list grow. Each nation, including the mini-states, give receptions or dinners on their national holiday, plus special receptions for visiting heads of state or foreign ministers. With the UN swollen to 123 members this year, at least 200 parties were held during the three month session of the General Assembly.

"Some nights I was invited to five," a Tunisian delegate said somewhat mournfully.

Lord Caradon estimates that this fall he received white engraved cards asking him to 96 cocktail parties and 105 dinners.

SOME DIPLOMATS, including U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, solve this problem by not attending many affairs. Those who feel they should make the rounds do not spend more than 15 minutes at a cocktail party. Lord Caradon's method is to bok his way through the receiving line and chat with diplomats as he threads his way towards the exit.

Vietnamese To Be U.S. Coed

By JOE HOLLOWAY

QUI NHON, Vietnam (AP) — Trans Thi Phuong is a tall, good-looking Vietnamese girl, one of hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese who work at U.S. military and civilian installations.

Next fall she hopes to be one of hundreds of thousands of college students studying in the United States — a gift from some grateful Americans.

"I am really very happy I am going to the United States to study," she said at a U.S. Army air base at Qui Nhon where she has been secretary-translator for the base commander for two years.

Capt. Richard Defer, a forward air controlling pilot, got the ball rolling for a college education for the 20-year-old Miss Phuong.

Defer, now taking B52 training at Castle Air Force Base near Merced, wrote a letter from Vietnam to his aunt in Traverse City, Mich., telling how Miss Phuong's ability as a translator had saved the lives of many Army buddies. Part of her work was questioning prisoners.

Since that letter was written last year, the Grand Traverse Council of Churches has enrolled Miss Phuong at Northwestern Michigan College, expenses paid. She will live with a local family.

A VIETNAMESE girl who is working as a secretary-translator for the U.S. Army in South Vietnam will soon leave for the United States to become a college student at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City, where her expenses and tuition have been paid by the Grand Traverse Council of Churches. Here the 20 year old secretary, Trans Thi Phuong, walks on the U.S. base at Qui Nhon, where she works for the base commander. (AP Wirephoto)

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Mom, I've Got A Stupid Question Is A Good Way To Get Attention

DEAR HELEN:

There are so many things I want to know but I don't want to sound ignorant or dumb. When you go to ask your mother one of these stupid questions, how do you say it so she won't laugh? — NINNY

DEAR NIN:

Any mother who laughs at her child's serious (not dumb!) questions should be stripped of her parent stripes! I'm sure your mother won't — and to make doubly sure, set the tone with, "Hey, Mom, I've got a very stupid question . . ." —which right away alerts her to your embarrassment and need for help. Try it! You'll be amazed how fast she reassures you, and how closely she listens.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Why is it that boys like a good shape better than a pretty face? — WONDERING

DEAR WON:

Perhaps because there's more of it.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

This is an answer for "Miserable" and anyone else who is a foster child and thinks she (or he) is getting a rough deal.

I, too, am a girl of 17 and have been a foster child for eight years because of parent troubles I won't mention. The world was really rough. Everyone looked down on me; and no one liked me. At least that's what I thought as I made the rounds of temporary homes.

But a year and a half ago all that changed. My foster parents are the greatest. Sure I have a curfew and rules. But that shows they care. I call them Mom and Ded because I love them.

Maybe "Miserable" is as lucky as I am and doesn't know it. I've discovered, through my foster parents, that it's a person's attitude that determines his success and friends — not his altitude on the social ladder.

Well, now I've got lots of friends. I'm earning college credits while still in high school. I know I'm really worth something. Most important of all,—I'M HAPPY

DEAR HELEN:

This is to "Miserable Welfare Kid." If she only knew how much little things like being called "Mom" and "Dad" and saying "goodnight" and "goodbye" meant to us foster parents! Also taking us into her confidence and telling us her problems.

In some states the allotment is so little that really our only reward is in the product we can turn out — that is, making a miserable kid into a happy purposeful child. — FOSTER MOM

DEAR HELEN:

I am nearly 19 and in college. I am dating a girl who is kind, generous, thoughtful, fine in every way and almost everyone agrees except my two uncles. They only see that she is Italian and Catholic. They take out their prejudice in un-funny race and religion jokes that they hope will turn me against her through ridicule.

I can't shut them up. My parents don't live here, and so they can't help. I don't want to cause a break in the family. What can I do? —IN LOVE AND HURT

DEAR ILAH:

Teens Must Break Bad Eating Habits

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—The earlier you break bad eating habits, the easier it is to do, says Sylvia Lowenstein, a physical education teacher at an all-girl vocational high school in Brooklyn.

Other arguments she uses to persuade overweight adolescents to reduce:

"Your skin stays nice if you reduce now, because it's more flexible when you're young.

"If you stay the way you are, you'll have a hard time buying clothes. The styles are unsuitable and you'll find less choice and higher prices."

Since most of her students come from very poor families, the price of clothing is an important factor, said Miss Lowenstein, who estimates that she has helped about 500 overweight students in the past seven years through a completely voluntary program at William H. Maxwell Vocational High School.

SHE SAID she started the club, which meets once a week, when she found at least five 14-year-olds in her freshman gym classes who were so heavy that she couldn't weight them on the school scales. The scales register a maximum of 250 pounds.

With the approval of the school principal and the school doctor, who provided City Board of Health reducing menus, Miss Lowenstein called a meeting at which the girls could talk together about their weight problems and—she hoped—to go on a diet together.

Tne girls attended the first meeting, she said. By the end of the school term, 15 more had joined. The current membership is about 40.

The girls all start with common misconceptions, she added. They skip breakfast and sometimes lunch, too, then fill up on all the wrong things—potato chips, candy and ice cream. Shown reducing menus, they always protest that they don't eat that much.

MISS LOWENSTEIN'S suggestions include three well-balanced meals a day, starting with a breakfast that includes protein such as an egg and a strip of bacon or cereal with skim milk. She urges them to bring fruit, vegetables and one sandwich, instead of two sandwiches, for lunch, and to cut down on the amounts of hot food they eat by serving it on smaller plates.

At the start of the program, Miss Lowenstein offered to start a party fund with pennies donated by each girl for each pound gained. She in return would give a penny for each pound lost. So far, there's never been a party.

ON THE AGENDA

High School Seniors Are Offered Scholarships By The Marin P-TA

The Marin County Parent-Teachers Association Scholarship Association, led by Mrs. Dale F. Norton of Greenbrae, has planned the awarding of scholarships to seniors in the Marin County public high schools. Preliminary plans have been made for an awards reception to honor and announce the scholarship recipients.

The scholarships, in the amount of $250 each, are intended to assist students needing financial help who might not be able to qualify for some awards, but whose good high school records and seriousness of purpose indicate a good chance for college success.

This year's scholarship awards will bring to over 100 the number of graduates from Marin County public high schools who have received assistance from the Marin County P-TA's Scholarship Fund since its founding in 1928. As the fund has increased gradually, so have the number of scholarships, and this year six recipients may be chosen.

Interested students in the various high schools can contact their counselors for information. Completed applications must be received by the counsellors by April 24.

Representing the North Marin Council of the P-TA at the meeting were Col. L. E. McCormick, Mesdames Duane Moeller and Rex Rolle; San Rafael Council, Mrs. Dallas Wagner; Ross Valley Council, Mesdames Dale Norton and Milton Johnson; Mill Valley Council, Mesdames Gale Bishel, R. M. Scruggs and Harold Jolley; West Marin Council, Mrs. Thomas Furlong.

WOMEN'S AMERICAN ORT began its national 1968 membership campaign Wednesday. ORT is one of the largest women's organizations in the United States today, with a membership of 78,000. The aim of the worldwide ORT program is to build and rebuild lives through vocational education. ORT, which teaches 70 different, modern skills, now operates over 650 vocational installations in 22 countries on five continents.

The ultimate purpose of the campaign is to help the ORT schools grow even more rapidly and thus be able to enroll thousands of more students. For membership information, call Mrs. Craig Williams.

NEW OFFICERS elected to serve the Marinwood - Lucas Valley Little League Women's Auxiliary are Mesdames William Klemme, president; George Thompson, treasurer; and John W. Ginter, secretary.

EDUCATORS AND volunteers of the California Transcribers and Educators of the Visually Handicapped will hold their ninth annual conference Friday through Sunday at the Del Webb Towne House in San Francisco. They will represent about 2700 visually impaired persons under the age of 18, who are being educated in 80 school systems and members of 55 groups consisting of about 1200 volunteers.

Those attending from Marin who are members of Transcribing Mariners, a branch of the CTEVH, are Mesdames Lee Marriott, Norman Kester, A. V. Girot Jr., Arnold Nutting, Syble Schneller, Norman Allan, Clayton Brock, Peter Palmer, Willard Hinkley and Miss Opal Clark and Miss Helen Heisserman.

Theme of the meeting is "The Challenge of '68." Guest speaker, Dr. Emerson Foulke, Ph. D. from the University of Louisville, who has done much of his studying by tape and braille, will describe and demonstrate "Rate Controlled Speech" — a method by which voice pitch and creating a tape recorded reading can be hurried up (without raising the "Donald Duck" effect) so that the blind student can compete timewise with the sighted reader of printed texts.

THE VOCATIONAL opportunities for high school graduates were described at a meeting of the San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Association by Dr. Alan Ellsberg in the fields of business, industrial arts and home economics. And, he added, personal attributes such as literacy, reliability, courtesy, aptitude, appearance and interest the graduate has will help him launch a career, and are developed by the home and school.

Mrs. Charolette Rummels, an employment interviewer for Pacific Telephone Company, listed jobs available to high school graduates who could learn the skills with minimum training. Girls are needed for clerical jobs and as operators, and boys with mechanical aptitude have wide choice, such as linemen, cable splicers, installers, coin counters and toll transmission operators, she said.

Frank Hewitt, field engineer for IBM, said persons are needed in the computer industry to install, service and maintain equipment. A college degree is necessary for plant and research centers. However, with mechanical aptitude and fundamentals in basic engineering, a course at a key punching school will enable a person to enter on-the-job training, he said. Small companies especially need people from this training program.

Douglas Godfrey, chemist at Chevron Research Laboratory, said boys with mechanical ability and knowledge of simple arithmetic could be employed as lab technicians and assistants, with on-the-job training. Girls are also employed as typists, he said.

Proceeds from the affair will benefit the Marin Civic Ballet Association. Reservation chairman is Mrs. Paul Erickson.

Protests Hit Belvedere Fire Hydrant Levy

Belvedere's plan for a special assessment district for fire mains and hydrants in three areas on the west side of the island were stymied last night by protests from residents.

An unexpected turnout of more than 40 persons appeared at the Belvedere City Council's "protest hearing" on formation of a district covering property along Cliff, Crest and Eucalyptus roads.

TAXES CITED

Residents contended that since they pay fire protection taxes, the city should pay for the mains and hydrants, not the property owners.

They also asserted that fire protection improvements in their area would benefit the entire city, not just their area.

Kenneth A. Frost, project engineer, reported that owners representing 60 per cent of the property involved protested.

There was a favorable majority vote only in the Crest Road area, he reported.

Fire Chief L. T. Mersereau opened the hearing with a warning of the fire danger in the area and the need for mains and hydrants.

TRUCK NOT ENOUGH

The fire department's 300-gallon truck would provide water for about one minute and 35 seconds, he said. "In five minutes a whole building can be involved.

In some areas, the truck can't get through, Mersereau said.

Several residents emphasized they were not protesting the need for the improvements but wanted them financed equitably.

Frost estimated that the project would cost $63,000 with the city's contribution $9,860 and the assessment to property owners $53,140.

Dr. Bradford Simmons of 26 Eucalyptus Road said the residents paid taxes and felt "there was a tacit agreement that the city would provide fire protection." The city should contribute more than 15 per cent "or pay for the whole thing," he said.

L. M. Tweedt of 32 Eucalyptus Road said: "We have been paying taxes for support of the fire protection which you tell us we don't have. We want to pay only our fair share."

Councilman Thomas S. Price said the council assumed that the majority "was for it or we wouldn't have gone as far as we have."

Haskell Titchell of 30 Eucalyptus Road said it was unjust to make residents in the proposed area pay for mains when the city pays in other areas of the city.

Price suggested that the hearing be continued and in the meantime a committee be formed consisting of a representative from each street and a city councilman to study other financing possibilities.

The council then voted to continue the hearing until 8 p.m. April 15 at the Community Center.

Councilmen Edwin J. Drechsel and Merritt K. Ruddock were absent.

Pay Phone Burglary Verdict Is Innocent

A Marin Superior Court jury deliberated two and one half hours Friday before finding Wilbur Rodgers, 32, of Los Angeles, innocent of burgling a pay telephone box at Marin General Hospital Nov. 27, 1966.

It was the second trial for Rodgers. The first ended Jan. 7 with a hung jury.

Teen-Agers Cited As Drug Suspects

A 16-year-old Belvedere boy and a 15-year-old Greenbrae girl were cited into the juvenile bureau Sunday night for suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs and violating the 11 p.m. curfew after being found in Paradise Park in Tiburon.

Deputy John O. Goff reported he saw a car pull into the park at 11:45 p.m. Checking the two juveniles inside, he reported he noticed the odor of burning incense, often used to conceal marijuana fumes.

The boy tried to conceal something in his palm which Goff said he found to be a tin of white pills, identified by the youth as benzadrine and what appeared to be a marijuana cigarette.

Innocent Pleas To Drug Sales

Two men, arrested under grand jury indictments during last month's county-wide narcotics raids, pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court yesterday to charges of selling marijuana and LSD.

William Richard Schraps, 24, of San Geronimo Valley, denied selling almost 18 pounds of marijuana and some LSD to agents of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau during January and February.

Robert Gerard, 26, of Sausalito, pleaded innocent to charges that he sold $320 worth of marijuana to a drug abuse agent in December and January.

Other Marin Delegates On Kennedy List

The names of two more Marin residents have been found on the list of the Kennedy delegation in the California presidential primary election.

The Independent-Journal reported Friday that the delegation included two Marinites, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Gatov of Kentfield and former Marin County Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker.

However, another reading of the list yesterday found the names of Robert Setrakian of Mill Woodlands and Robert L. Harmon of Belvedere. They were not spotted Friday because the list says they represent areas outside Marin.

Setrakian is listed as a resident of Delano, and Harmon is listed as a resident of Tahoe City. Leydecker, who lives in Sausalito, also was listed as a resident of another city — Napa. In each case, the three delegates changed their registrations on March 18 to other congressional districts where they have businesses.

The state election code requires that voters be registered where they live when not working, the secretary of state's office advised.

The composition of the presidential primary delegations is based on congressional districts, Leydecker told the Independent-Journal yesterday that he "just preferred being in the First District." Most of Marin is in the Sixth Congressional District.

Liquor License Violation Filed

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The state Department of Alcoholic Beverage control has ordered a 15-day suspicion of the on-sale general liquor license of Sausalito Four Winds, Inc., at the Two Turtles, 688 Bridgeway, Sausalito, on charges of sales to minors and permitting minors to remain on public premises and consume.

The suspension takes effect May 9.

The department announced also it has accepted payment of $222 from Raymond F. and Kathleen Gill, Jr., in lieu of a suspension of their on-sale general liquor license at Smiley's, Main Street, Bolinas. The licensees were charged on Oct. 23 with permitting minors on the premises and failing to maintain a sign saying persons under 21 were not allowed.

Span Directors To Hear Report On Second Deck

A $265,000 engineering and cost study of a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge will be unveiled at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at a special meeting of Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors in the administration building at the toll booth plaza.

Milton Brumer, president of Ammann and Whitney, New York engineering firm that prepared the study, will present it. Bridge district directors voted for the study last August, but then in November voted to take no further action toward a second deck unless mass transportation proved unable to relieve congestion.

The bridge district board's legislation committee will meet at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the administration building to consider legislation in Sacramento that would affect the district.

The regular board meeting will begin at 10 a.m. Friday.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Alcoholism Not Metioned, But Secretly Causes Many Deaths

VAN DELLEN

Alcoholism causes more deaths than many of us realize. Official statistics obtained from death certificates do not bear this out because it is not mentioned as a contributory factor because of the stigma associated with overimbibing.

This includes more than half the highway fatalities.

Another example is what alcoholism does to the heart. In addition to doing microscopic damage to heart muscles, booze creates a definite burden on the organ by increasing its work. We do not refer to a cocktail or two before dinner, but to heavy drinking.

MANY PERSONS who go to bed after a bender awaken several hours later with the heart beating hard and fast. This symptom may lead to a fatal heart attack when the individual has narrowed or obstructed coronary arteries.

Alcohol is responsible for a variety of nervous and mental disorders. The same can be said of digestive disturbances including alcoholic pancreatitis which tends to recur and may lead to diabetes. Death from cirrhosis of the liver is common, but alcoholism rarely is noted o the death certificate.

Even skid-road drunks are reported as dying from malnutrition or pneumonia.

LIQUOR ALSO causes many fatalities from drowning, burns, and falls. Blood studies by the coroner often reveal a high alcohol level in accidents of these types.

A tipsy sailor falls down concrete steps at the wharf and injures his head or the member of a fishing party becomes inebriated and overturns the boat and drowns. The number of fires started by a stuporous smoker lying on the couch or in bed are too numerous to mention.

Alcohol as cause of death never is mentioned on the coroner's report.

Homicide and drinking go together like ham and eggs. Minor disagreements among drinkers often have a fatal ending. Almost 50 per cent of suicides are attempted or culminated while drinking.

PHLEBITIS AFTER SURGERY

W. D. writes: Why does phlebitis occur after an operation?

REPLY

Becuase inactivity slows down the flow of blood in the veins, which encourages clotting. In other instances, the veins have been injured through trauma or by the necessary procedures. Furthermore, the clotting mechanism is altered during surgery. We have a leaflet on phlebitis which may be obtained by sending stamped self-addressed envelope with request.

HANGOVER IN MOUTH

A. J. writes: After rinking alcoholic beverages on weekends, a bad taste remains in my mouth for three days. How can I get rid of it without giving up alcohol?

REPLY

Many would like to know the answer to this. You can't have your cake and eat it, too.

SPREAD OF SCABIES

A reader writes: Can the itch be transmitted through infected linen and bedding?

REPLY

Yes. This is why clothing, linen, and bedding must be washed or dry cleaned whenever a case of scabies appears in a household.

WHITE SPOTS ON NAILS

B. T. writes: What are those small white spots that appear on the finernails? I would also like to know what cause them?

REPLY

Tax-Free Foundations Hit For Not Aiding War Effort

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As Rep. Wright Patman's subcommittee sees it, tax-free foundations sometimes turn out to be playthings of the rich and it's time they did something useful —like help pay for the Vietnam war.

"Since Americans at all levels are being asked to contribute more and more taxes to the support of the Vietnam war, the tax-exempt foundations can do no less," the House small business subcommittee on foundations said in a report yesterday.

It added there was a precedent for them to volunteer their gross receipts for the duration of the conflict—their previous donations to foreign governments.

Besides foundations that are toys for the wealthy and others that are tax dodges, Patman said, still others suffer from charitable myopia—more concern for Africans than poor Negroes in Harlem, for example.

Illustrative of inconsequential foundations, Patman said, is that of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, who used his Rockwin Foundation to obtain a $200,000 antique car collection in 1960.

Patman said Rockefeller's foundation also bought 50,000 copies of an autobiography of his mother for $11,850, some of which were given away during his successful campaign for governor in 1966.

The subcommittee, Patman said, studied the overseas donations of 25 of the larger foundations and found they spent $176.6 million overseas between 1965 and 1967. He said this added to the dollar drain, making the U. S. balance of payments worse.

"The Rockefeller Foundation, for example, is so incapable of seeing the need for helping citizens of this country that it sent 75 per cent more money out of the country in 1966 than it spent here," the report said.

"While thousands of people in city clums and depressed areas of the United States lack adequate housing, the Richard King Mellon Foundation, of Pittsburgh, Pa., spends $50,000 on the 'preservation of historic buildings' in Ireland."

The report also:

The report said the number of tax-exempt foundations is now estimated at 25,000. The 596 largest had assets of $15.1 billion and receipts of $2.7 billion in 1965 and 1967.

Clergymen Cite Trends To Join In Single Church

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Church leaders see signs that unity among Protestants is moving ahead of formal church authorization for it.

"While we're talking about it, it's happening," one theologian remarked.

The point was brought out repeatedly as the Consultation on Church Union today sought to map procedures for merging 10 American Protestant denominations with a total of 25.5-million members into a single church.

The Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, the rise of a "radical, practical Christianity" in which various believers spurned church divisions to join the united action.

The consultation's seventh annual meeting opened yesterday, involving delegations from the participating denominations as well as observers from about 20 other churches, including Roman Catholicism.

Churches involved in the consultation are Methodist, Episcopal, United Presbyterian, Presbyterian U.S., Diciples, United Church of Christ, Evangelical United Brethren, African Methodist Episcopal, African Methodist Episcopal Zion and Christian Methodist Episcopal.

San Quentin Closing Considered Unlikely

The California Department of Corrections is going ahead with plans to build prisons to house an additional 7,000 convicts by 1978, and there is little likelihood San Quentin will be closed soon, a prison system official said last night.

Lorentz E. Wormley, supervisor of education for the department of corrections, said the department is aware of impulses for prison reform in California — including a recent recommendation that San Quentin be closed and no more state prisons be built — but it is "rocking along with the status quo" until the Legislature speaks.

Wormley spoke to a meeting of San Quentin's Academic Advisory Committee last night at the prison. The committee is a citizens' advisory group which works on the prison's educational program.

"San Quentin is an old institution, and it doesn't have many friends," said Wormley. "But the prison curve will follow the population increase in California and our projections are for 7,000 more inmates in state institutions by 1978. There is little likelihood San Quentin will be closed anytime in the near future."

Wormley said the department of corrections will go ahead with plans to build a new $29 million prison at San Diego. He said the 2,400-inmate institution will aid the economy of San Diego County.

Also planned, he said, are two additional prisons, each housing 1,200 inmates; conservation camps housing 1,000 inmates and four smaller prisons, housing 250 inmates each.

There are now 28,375 inmates in the state's prisons.

Aside from population pressure, San Quentin has a number of things to recommend it, said Wormley. It is one of the most economical of the state's prisons, costing about $2,600 a year for each inmate.

San Quentin also has a successful honor system, he pointed out, in which about two thirds of its population is free of the cellblocks at night to go to classes or other night time activities.

Mill Valley Schools Improvements Outlined

The architect for the Mill Valley School District last night presented plans for a $162,900 improvement program for Mill Valley's neighborhood schools.

All the changes will be completed in time for the 1968-69 school year, Richard Jessup told trustees.

Most of the money would come from the $3.5 million bond issue passed last year for a new middle school and neighborhood school improvements.

The $162,900 is only the first phase of planned improvements, the board emphasized when parents in the audience protested the program was too small.

The improvements will meet the schools' needs until the middle school is finished approximately two years from now, the board said. Then the district can sell the rest of the bond issue to carry out permanent, long-range improvements.

It would overload the district's bonding capacity to sell the entire $3.5 million bond issue now, Supt. James A. Collins said.

The net changes Jessup outlined last night:

Strawberry School —Addition of a multi-purpose room, cost $4,500 in rental of one portable unit for a year.

Old Mill —Conversion of the auditorium to a multi-purpose room, and removal of one classroom, cost $2,500.

Homestead — Addition of a classroom, a multi-purpose room, two toilets, storage space and paved walks, $126,000. An existing building will be razed and replaced with four "semi-permanent" classroom units.

Park — Addition of one classroom, $17,200.

Marin Terrace —Addition of a classroom and a multi-purpose room, $5,300.

Edna Maguire — Addition of one classroom, one library room and two classrooms for educationally handicapped students, $4,800.

The net change would be addition of five multi-purpose rooms, three classrooms, two classrooms for educationally-handicapped pupils and two toilets.

The Mill Valley School District Board Also:

The Mill Valley School District board also:

PETITION — Received an eight-point petition from 61 parents of Alto School pupils, asking changes in the system of reporting student progress to parents. The board referred the letter to the new "reporting to parents" committee, comprising teachers from eight schools.

Petitioners said they wanted quarterly report cards; wanted to know student standing compared quarterly to national and local averages; wanted to be informed quarterly on their children's progress in each subject; wanted the present method of teaching at Edna Maguire continued with letter grades; wanted more graded work sent home for parents to see; felt that children need motivation and direction by adults; opposed having their children asked to take psychological tests or fill out "sociograms" on how they feel about other children, and said they would like better-prepared conferences with teachers.

HIRING — Hired three new teachers for 1968-69. Donald G. Woods, a speech therapist with seven years experience, will start at $9,312. Raymond F. Jurasin, with eight years experience, will teach in a K-5 school starting at $9,696. James D. Derich, now a student teacher in the district, will teach in a K-5 school starting at $7,212.

LEAVE — Agreed to extend the one-year leave of Ellen Brown, teacher at Park School.

APPLICATION — Agreed to hold a closed meeting, either at the April 15 meeting or at a special session, to meet with an applicant for a teaching job.

Historic Films Will Be Shown

Animated films by European, Canadian and United States film makers will be shown at 8 p.m. Friday by the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts at the Mill Valley Golf clubhouse.

Ray Rice, Marin film maker, sculptor and painter, will show some of his "luminographic" (painting with film) works, and will lead a discussion on film techniques after the showing.

Four films by George Melies of France, all made before 1904, will be shown. One, "The Flower Fairy," was made in 1897, before color film was invented — each frame was hand-painted.

Other films will be a German animated version of Ionesco's "Rhinoceros" a Canadian film, "Fiddle-De-Dee," and "Alphabet," by Eliot Noyes of the U.S.

Mountain Play Director Named

Thomas Chesnut, director of music for Ross School District, has been named musical director for this year's Mountain Play production, "Alice Through the Looking Glass," May 19 and 26 in the Mount Tamalpais theater.

He is composing special music designed for the individual characters and it will be heard during the performance in an original stereophonic sound.

A founding member of the Marin Symphony Guild, Chesnut has composed two operas, "Emperor Norto" and "Abraham Lincoln." He has recorded with Dizzy Gellespie and Gunther Schuller and has appeared with the both the San Francisco opera and symphony orchestra. He has also been a soloist at the Monterey Jazz Festival.

Design Board Denies Plea By Lytton

The Corte Madera Board of Design last night denied a renewed request by Lytton Savings and Loan Association of Palo Alto for approval of existing enclosures of three apartment decks at Mariner Green townhouses.

The board the gave Lytton three months in which to remove the enclosures, and suggested the firm obtain alternate designs that might be acceptable by the board if residents at Mariner Green wish to install enclosures in the future.

The application earlier had been denied by the planning commission, was appealed to the Town Council, where denial was upheld. The firm then made the new application.

The design board last night also granted application of Arthur R. Nicolaisen of San Rafael for approval of a 24-unit apartment project at 779 Meadowsweet Drive, and approved plans by Federal Sign and Signal Co. of Oakland for a proposed flower kiosk, a small separate building, at Corte Madera shopping center.

Marin Violinist To Sonoma Posts

Violinist Vlado Kolitsch of San Rafael has been appointed artist affiliate in violin at Sonoma State College and concertmaster of Sonoma Philharmonic Orichestra.

He will give his first violin recital at Ives Hall on the college campus April 18 at 11 a.m.

Kolitsch is also scheduled to give a concert in the Veterans Memorial Auditorium, Santa Rosa, May 1 at 8 p.m.

His program for both events will include works by Beethoven and Bela Bartok. Proceeds will be for a fund to provide an artificial kidney machine for Emily Putney, wife of a college faculty member.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Star Spangled Girl' Waves Few Banners

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — With all the impact of the third hiccough after the second glass of beer, "The Star-Spangled Girl" descended on its unsuspecting audience last night at the Curran Theater.

This thin veneer of a set of gags built around the frail frame of a super-patriotic girl will never make it as first in the hearts of its countrymen. And Neil Simon, author of the hilarious "The Odd Couple," definitely does not make it with this one. The program states Mr. Simon has been writing a play a year for six seasons. This is were the trouble lies. No one can be funny that continuously — at least, not hit-funny.

PERKINS NOT ENOUGH

Anthony Perkins, who plays one of the Ivy League graduates dedicated to publishing a protest magazine, as well as doubling as the play's director, fights a gallant fight — and at times his pace and comic contortions save a scene —but even this and his stalwart companion Remak Ramsay cannot keep flags waving and bands playing throughout the evening's performance. There's just nothing to wave flags about.

The plot is so thin, the characters so unlikable, that no one cares a hoot about them. The most picturesque character in the play is the daredevil landlady who never makes an appearance — Perkins talks to her on the phone. Which brings to mind conversations on plones with never-seen characters — a gimmick which should be outlawed by the Dramatists' Guild.

WORST CHARACTER

If by now you're convinced I don't like the play, you're right. But I've left the worst character til last. This is Sophie Rauschmeyer, portrayed by Sheilah Wells. Sophie leads one to suspect that Mr. Simon has it in for all "red-blooded American girls," for he gives her everything nasty, including the blahs. This dame hasn't an ounce of charm or womanly attributes, and Miss Wells can be nothing less than totally unsympathetic; she doesn't have the body of a personality to put on — it's acting in your birthday suit.

To save the pieces and make box office, the playwright has strung his gags together so metronomically that you can time the laughs in advance. After all, the audience has to do something. There are gags like "the girl resembled a wet-back Martha Washington in her patriotic zeal!" Or, when Ramsay, out of love for the girl, buys a basket of gourmet tidbits, Perkins shouts in sheer horror "You spent $22 on toy food." And lots more of like ilk.

WHERE'S HUCK?

The program notes that the standby for Mr. Perkins and Mr. Ramsay is Tom Sawyer, which leads us to the thought that if they'd bring on Huck Finn too, they'd have a better show.

"The Star-Spangled Girl" will pay nightly except Mondays at 8:30 with Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2:30 through April 6.

Reception Is Set For Festival Workers

A reception for volunteers of Marin Shakespeare Festival is scheduled for Saturday at 1 p.m. at the festival's headquarters in the St. Peter Chanel Seminary, 1675 Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

John Brebner, executive director, will discuss plans for the upcoming season which opens July 20 with "Macbeth," "Anthony and Cleopatra" and "Comedy of Errors" in the Forest Meadow Theater.

New Teacher Training Idea Is Introduced

A new idea about in-service teacher training was introduced last night by Mill Valley School Supt. James A. Collins.

Collins proposed a "rotational school" to be set up at Alto School for kindergarten through fifth grade pupils after the new middle school is finished two years from now.

THREE GOALS

The school would have three major goals, Collins told the Mill Valley School District board: in-service growth and retraining of teachers; instruction tailored to the individual student and lower student-teacher ratios, and a voluntary student body of 250 to 330 which would include about one-third minority group students from an urban area somewhere around the Bay.

Both teacher and student participation would be voluntary, probably with approximate quotas from the other K-5 schools.

The program would be funded by private grants, federal or state money for special projects or possibly a combination of sources.

NEW OPERATION

Teachers would operate in the "growing edge" of teaching, able to try new teaching methods and materials, Collins said.

Tentative plan is for a cadre of 10 to 12 teachers at the school permanently, working with another 10 to 12 volunteers from the other schools who would spend a semester at alto — hence the term "rotational" — returning to their former schools to apply lessons learned.

The school board took no formal action, but told Collins to continue planning and determining what funds are available. He hopes to get five-year program financing initially, Collins said.

Opposition to the plan came from Robert J. House of Mill Valley, who charged "you're setting up a brainwashing unit here as far as I'm concerned."

House said he wanted to volunteer his children for traditional, conventional schooling "that I don't consider has been a failure."

Collins said House could consult with staff at his children's school and next year probably could place them with teachers who are not moving rapidly into the advanced program" in the school system.

Trustee William L. Clark defined the board's dilemma: The board is confornted by some parents who demand "The most advanced, experimental education going," while at the same time there are "Equally vehement demands by parents who resist any kind of innovation."

The voluntary rotational school may help solve that problem, Clark said.

The original plan for Alto School, after completion of the middle school, was conversion to administrative offices. If the rotational school is established, the administration will stay in its rented downtown quarters.

"I feel classrooms are more important than administrative offices," Collings said.

The "rotational school" plan would also free space in the other K-5 schools for growth in enrollment.

Private Firm School Safety Survey Asked

The Sausalito School District board last night told Supt. Phillip W. Schneider to get proposals by private engineering firms for safety surveys of Central School and possibly Richardson Bay School as well.

The action followed reading of a letter from the state Office of Architecture and Construction, saying it would put the district on its waiting list for survey by a state engineer and that it would only declare the buildings structurally safe or unsafe and would neither appraise cost of necessary remedies nor rule on the safety of the electrical system.

The Sausalito School Board also:

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted three resignations: second grade teacher Ruby Reddick at the end of the school year, because she has moved to Foster City and accepted a post in the San Mateo schools; first grade teacher Adrienne Karp at the end of the school year, because she wishes to leave the district and is seeking a post elsewhere; bus driver Richard Bettancourt, who has been accepted by the Sausalito Fire Department.

CIVIL DEFENSE — Approved the district's civil defense program, updated for 1968-69 for submission to the county superintendent of schools and the state Department of Education.

HIGH SCHOOL BONDS — Heard a request by Tamalpais High School's bond committee for support of the high school's $9,900,500 bond issue in the June 4 election. Action on the request was deferred to the board's April 8 meeting.

CURRICULUM — Heard faculty reports on enrichment of the school curriculum through the use of special art classes and projects in connection with other subjects.

LEASE — Approved a lease agreement of old Manzanita School to the superintendent of schools office for use as a preschool child care center.

ELECTION — Certified results of the March 11 election on extension and increase of the general purpose tax rate: 786 yes, 872 no, 6 void.

REPORTS — Accepted reports on enrollment and on the nutritional program for providing luncheon to youngsters unable to furnish their own for various reasons.

COMPLAINTS — Went into closed session to hear complaints by one teacher against two others and later announced in open session no formal action would be required since the differences had been successfully mediated by the board.

Car Recovered

Mill Valley police Saturday recovered a car reported stolen March 2 from George R. Arndt of 27 South Knoll Road, Mill Valley. The car, a 1959 Buick, was found abandoned on Reed Street.

$771,000 Is Offered For Bay School Site

Sausalito School District trustees last night turned a cold shoulder on an offer of $771,000 for the 17.7-acre Richardson Bay School site.

The offer by the San Francisco real estate firm of Grubb and Ellis on behalf of an unidentified client was not turned down with finality. Board president David Freedheim noted that the property was appraised three years ago at roughly $2 million and that about 18 months ago a finance subcommittee of the board had called $1 million a realistic figure in any liquidation sale. With board approval, he instructed Supt. Phillip W. Schneider to tell Grubb and Ellis the district was not prepared to consider the offer at the present time.

COST PER ACRE

The real estate firm's offer was figured at $1 a square foot, or $43,560 an acre.

In any event sale of the property was rendered largely academic by the voters defeat last October of the district's $1.4 million bond issue, which would have financed the first phase of bringing all the district schools together in a single educational park at the Bayside School Site, thus rendering surplus Richardson Bay, Central and Manzanita school sites.

A sharp difference in philosophy as to a board's role in the community surfaced briefly but spiritedly last night as a result of another district setback at the polls March 5, when voters refused to increase the general purpose tax rate from $2.25 to $2.45 and to authorize indefinite expansion of the general purpose rate. As a result the board faces a return July 15 to a 90-cent rate, which school officials call disastrous.

On March 11, the board voted to go once more to the voters June 4 in a last ditch effort to get both the indefinite extention and a general purpose tax rate of $2.40.

Last night trustee James E. Muldoon asked for a correction of the March 11 minutes, noting that in his absence that night it had been recorded that he favored the board's proposal of a $2.40 rate.

Muldoon said that if he had been present he might not have voted for the indefinite extension of the rate and would have favored "trying to reach a compromise with different groups in the community" who oppose a rate higher than the current $2.25.

DISAGREES SHARPLY

Freedheim disagreed sharply on the matter of compromise among groups in the community, maintaining that it was the board's position merely to determine what was best in its judgment for the district and then presenting that view for the citizenry to accept or reject on an either/or basis.

Said Freedheim, "The board does not represent any one group in the three communities with children in the district." Anyone reflecting the view of any one group should resign, he said.

Kite Contests Set At School

Tomorrow will be kite day at Grandada School in Corte Madera, wind and weather permitting.

A kite-flying contest will be held at 1 p.m. for pupils 6 to 8 years old and one at 1:30 p.m. for pupils 9 to 12 years old, according to James I. Justeson, principal.

Prizes will be awarded for the most original and for the highest flying kites.

If it rains tomorrow, the same schedule will apply for Friday instead, according to Junsteson.

Japanese Order U.S. Hospital Out Of Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) Premier Eeisau Sato said today the controversial $3 million U.S. Army hospital for Vietnam wounded would have to leave Tokyo—the sooner the better.

The new hospital, located in some surplus buildings, has not even opened for business yet but it has been the target of wild demonstrations by violently anti-American left-wing Zengakuren students.

Sato told a meeting of top government and party officials that the hospital "is not desirable because it will have unfavorable effects on the neighborhood."

A U.S. military spokesman said he had "no comment" on the Sato remarks.

Original complaints against locating the hospital in heavily-populated Oji district came from local residents who feared patients from Vietnam might bring dread tropical diseases to the area and that Army helicopter ambulances would create noise problems.

The hospital is surrounded by a complex of more than 40 four-story apartment houses and there also are several large schools in the neighborhood.

If you drive one, you may not want to bring it back.

Not that anyone would intentionally abscond with one of our youngmobiles. But with all the fun things to discover, it's a pretty tough decision to bring back the car instead of your check.

Take performance, for example. There's a whole new generation of Rocket V-8 Engines that are bigger, more responsive, more economical to operate. Or features. Like an ignition alarm buzzer that reminds you to take your keys.

Windshield wipers that duck out of sight when not in use. All the new General Motors safety items.

And such exclusive Olds availabilities as a Tilt-and-Telescope Steering Wheel featuring an "Instant Horn" that honks when you squeeze the wheel.

So check out a Delmont 88 during "Olds 88 Days." And if you're tempted to drive it home, remember that crime doesn't pay. Not at prices like ours.

FOR THE TEACHER

New Status: The Sabbatical

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

Tell a friend you know a school teacher and the reply is invariably: "How wonderful. They have all that lovely paid vacation."

Now, entrenching the teacher still further into that often-times enviable position, comes the sabbatical.

The word is derived from Sabbath or the Hebrew "shabath" and means, according to the dictionary, "a period of rest of the nature of the Sabbath." A kind of rest it may be, but one day a week it isn't.

To most of the eligible faculty of Marin schools, sabbatical means six months away from the classroom at full pay or 75 per cent salary. Or it could mean a year off at half salary.

Whether a teacher spends the time researching his master's degree, traveling the museum route across Europe or basking on the southern shore of the Black Sea is up to him.

But his chances of being granted a sabbatical after the minimum seven years with a district are better if he says he is heading for the hallowed halls of higher learning than if he needs it for recuperation.

Principally, the idea is to allow a teacher time to widen his horizons, study in a different atmosphere, pursue further credits and generally enrich himself professionaly.

At least, those are the arguments placed before school boards which find sabbaticals have a price tag.

The San Rafael Board of Education has approved 11 sabbatical leaves for the 1968-69 school year, estimated to add $37,000 to salary costs. It will cost Tamalpais High School District $22,000 for allowing nine sabbatical leaves in the coming year.

Novato School District has approved three sabbaticals for the coming year but details on their cost were unobtainable from the administration.

Both San Rafael and Tamalpais school boards have yielded to pressure to open up more paid free time to faculty.

At Tam the percentage of teachers allowed to be away on sabbaticals recently jumped from 2 per cent to 4 per cent — or a maximum of 13 a year.

This increased percentage arose principally from the fact that last year, 15 teachers applied for leave when only six applicants could be allowed to go.

"It was rather unfortunate because we felt that each of the disappointed nine had justifiable reasons for having a sabbatical," said James A. Fitzgerald, director of personnel and a member of the Personnel Growth Committee which screens sabbatical applicants.

Ironically, now the maximum has been increased to 13, only nine have applied for leave in the 1968-69 school year.

"None of these nine are teachers who were rejected last year," said Fitzgerald. "Perhaps they did not feel it it was worth the trouble of replanning their sabbatical.

"When word gets out, particularly to those who favor half-year sabbaticals, I think we will be flooded with applications, he said.

The new policy of the San Rafael board permits half-year leaves at full pay and full-year leaves at half pay. Until recently, only full-year leaves at half pay were granted.

Herald L. Gill, personnel director, said the introduction of semester leaves in the district was based on their growing popularity among teachers who had to support a family.

Joseph E. Rooney, art teacher at Sir Francis Drake High School, will be taking his wife along when he leaves in June to live, study and travel in Japan for a year.

"I would not have been able to do this any other way than with a sabbatical," he said. "I will be taking slides of Japanese architecture and artists at work. I will also study blockmaking."

The information and knowledge gathered, he said, would benefit not only the classroom but local art groups as well.

Jean Stevens, a music teacher in the elementary schools of San Rafael, hopes to concentrate more on the method of bringing music into the lives of every pupil in a classroom rather than to specialize in selected groups.

She will divide a year's sabbatical between studying in Hungary and at Sonoma State College. "In Hungary they have developed a system of music education which is probably unsurpassed," she said.

Being abroad on a sabbatical can sometimes be slightly hazardous as Louise Kraft, English teacher at Tam High, was to find.

For some inexplicable reason a blood vessel burst in her eye while in Moscow, she reported, and she declined Russian treatment.

Cutting short her tour, she flew to London only to find most medical treatment is nationalized and the other kind proved too expensive. She went on to Ireland to recuperate on her own.

The writing of reports and the giving of lectures usually faces a teacher on his return to campus.

"It's not just a case of throwing in a travel folder and saying 'that's it'," said art teacher Rooney.

Said Gill: "Apparently school boards feel sabbaticals give them back far more than it costs."

SABBATICAL SHOW—Back from a sabbatical leave in Europe, the Middle East and Greece, history teacher Charles G. Simonds loads a projector at Sir Francis Drake High School with movies he made on the trip. "I saw ancient places I had only talked about for years," he said. Pictured with him are students Judy Austin, Chris Braun and James Phelps. (Independent-Journal photo)

OWN MURDER TRIAL

Herrera Wants To Handle Case

By STEPHEN COOK

A 23-year-old El Salvador immigrant, scheduled to go on trial for murder next week in Marin Superior Court, today told Judge Joseph G. Wilson that he wants to act as his own attorney.

Joaquin Antonio Herrera, accused of the execution-style murder of a San Rafael soldier Jan. 9, said he wants to handle his own case, even though he lacks formal education and only recently learned to read, write and speak English.

DOUBTS SANITY

Judge Wilson said he doubts Herrera's sanity. He suspended the murder trial proceedings and ordered that the jockey sized immigrant submit to examination by two psychiatrists.

In another action, Judge Wilson postponed the trial of Kenneth Allen Preston and Johnny Lee Sommerhalder, accused of murdering Curtis and Shirley Ackley of Santa Venetia Jan. 12.

Their trial, scheduled to begin April 15, was postponed until May 13 because Public Defender Jerome C. Durham will be representing Mary Jo Goodson, accused of murdering her 3-year-old son, in the week of Arpil 15.

Harold J. Truett, attorney for Herrera, today complained that Herrera has refused to cooperate with him in preparing a defense.

HERRERA'S STATEMENT

Herrera, accused of killing Sp/5 Ronald Lee Washburn of San Rafael, told the judge:

"I have a lot of knowledge of how murder cases are handled in court. I do not need a lawyer or any attorney to prove my innocence in this case. Whatever is to be done to me is up to the Lord's will."

Questioned by the judge, Herrera said:

"I have no formal education. I've never gone to school. I was taught and raised in my own home in El Salvador, Central America. Everything I know, my father taught me. I came to the United States March 13, 1966. As far as I am concerned, I have the equivalent of a high school education."

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales interjected, urging that Judge Wilson not allow Herrera to proceed to trial without counsel.

"I understood that I have the right, not the obligation, to be represented by an attorney," Herrera said.

KNOWS PENALTY

"Not until I make some determination as to your competence," said Judge Wilson.

"I am completely conscious of what I am facing," Herrera said.

The judge asked if he knew that the punishment for murder could be death. Herrera said he did.

"In this case, there is someone who knows the truth. I know the case better than anyone. This is a plot against me and there is only one person whose testimony is going to clarify this case," Herrera said.

"Did you say people are plotting against you?" the judge asked.

"Yes," said Herrera.

ORDERS EXAM

The judge ordered that two psychiatrists examine the suspect to determine if he understands the charges against him and is able to cooperate in his defense.

"Under the circumstances, this is the only thing I can do," Judge Wilson said. "I find it ridiculous that, with the limited experience you have, you will undertake your own defense in a death penalty case.

"If you are serious in wanting to defend yourself, Mr. Herrera, you will cooperate with these doctors."

Fairfax Bond Drive Volunteers Sought

The Fairfax Citizens Bond Committee needs volunteer workers and financial contributions to publicize the city's $550,000 bond proposal for a fire station and police-city administration building on the June 4 ballot, according to Frank L. Blake Jr., bond committee co-chairman.

Contributions, he said, may be sent to the Fairfax branch of Bank of America, made out to the Fairfax Citizens Bond Committee. Volunteers can notify Blake at 20 Park Lane, or Mrs. Faye Jensen, co-chairman, at 4 Meadow Way.

SHAKESPEARE PROVEN RIGHT ONCE AGAIN

Shakespeare was right when he wrote: "Beauty provoketh thieves sooner than gold."

It provoketh them to carry off a three-foot statue in the dead of night from the courtyard of the Dominican College in San Rafael.

It was a figure of the Bard himself, seated on a small bench obviously pondering the fickleness of mankind.

The Shakespeare statue had been in the possession of the school since 1927 and was reported missing to police yesterday.

Sergeants Find 'Party' Little Rough

Two staff sergeants from Hamilton Air Force Base went looking for a party last night and wound up being beaten and robbed instead.

Sgts. William W. Day and Donald Czarneckl of the 87th Field Maintenance Squadron told sheriff's deputies they went to Marin City at 11 p.m. looking for a party.

They were approached by two youths who offered to steer them to the action. When they drove to 99 Cole Drive, the sergeants said, one youth asked Day if he had any money. Day showed him $10 and the youth took it, Day said. The pair then took $50 from Czarneckl, the sergeants said, and started beating Day when Czarneckl ran off to find help.

Both men had minor bruises and said they would have checkups at the base hospital.

Two Boys Treated For Wreck Injuries

Two Sausalito boys, Perry Yee, 11, of 500 Olema Street, and William Jen, 15, of 191 Harrison Street, were treated for cuts and bruises at Marin General Hospital after their bicycle hit a Volkswagen bus yesterday in Sausalito.

Police said Jen, carrying Yee as a passenger, was unable to stop at the intersection of Third and Richardson streets, and hit the side of the bus driven by Mark Anthony Collin, 18, of 253 Richardson Road, Tamalpais Valley. The accident occurred at 5:10 p.m.

Sausalitan Faces Firearms Charge

Paul Michael Ashley, 23, of Sausalito, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a misdemeanor charge of carrying a loaded firearm in his car. His case was continued until today for plea.

San Anselmo and Fairfax police reported that Ashley, also wanted on a Superior Court warrant for violation of probation on a check conviction, had a loaded 12-gauge shotgun and eight small plastic bags containing white powder when stopped Sunday.

The powder is being analyzed, they said.

Bennett Announces Formally For Senate

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — California Public Utilities Commissioner William M. Bennett of Kent Woodlands today formally announced his candidacy for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Republican Thomas H. Kuchel.

Bennett, 50, filed for the seat last week, but until today deferred a decision on whether to be a "serious candidate." He's serious now, and announced his decision at airport press conferences in Los Angeles, San Diego and here, and was to announce later today in Sacramento.

THE ISSUE

None of the other candidates for the seat opposes the Vietnam War, Bennett charged, "But history makes this the issue of the campaign." Also seeking the seat are two other Democrats, former state controller Alan Cranston and state Sen. Anthony Bielenson of Beverly Hills, and state Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty.

Both of his Democratic opponents, Bennett said, "will offer the same old bland, superficial campaign. Cranston says he is opposed to killing and incinerating, but he's not going to critize Johnson," charged Bennett, "so I'd ask, 'Why is he running?' "

Bennett termed Bielenson "a political Columbus who has discovered the war. As the campaign progresses, we will learn whether this was an election year discovery or something else," he added.

Kuchel "has supported Johnson's war," said Bennett, "and I accuse him of being a hawk and Rafferty of being a super hawk."

Bennett noted he has been speaking out against the war since 1965. "We should recognize our mistake, and withdraw," he declared. Withdrawal might take up to two years, he estimated.

"We can work out some guarantees for the preservation of human rights with the NLF and North Vietnamese," he said.

OPPOSES SURCHARGE

Bennett said he would oppose Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes. "It would make it much easier for Mr. Johnson to continue his war, and could push us into a recession," said Bennett.

Bennett sounght the democratic nomination for state attorney general in 1966. He was chief counsel of the PUC from 1959 until 1963, when former Gov. Edmund G. Brown appointed him to the commission.

Bennett formerly served in the attorney general's office, and was special prosecutor in the liquor scandals of the 1950's.

Six Youths Quizzed On Break-Ins

Six freshmen at Terra Linda High School have been suspended pending further investigation into a series of break-ins and thefts at the school, San Rafael police reported today.

The boys reportedly either broke in to school property or used stolen keys to gain entry and carry away tools, wrenches, amplfiers, speakers and other items.

Donald F. Achziger, dean of boys, told police one of the suspects disclosed he had a set of keys, four of which were master keys to other schools, unnamed.

According to police, several of the boys admitted entering the school at weekend and attempting to sell some of the stolen property.

Over the past weekend, the manual arts room at the school was reported entered but nothing appeared missing.

Gavin Claims Viet Victory Day Is Passe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "There will never be a victory in Vietnam—only victims," says retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin.

"The idea of a V-E or V-J day is out, passe. War is not like that now," he told a news conference yesterday.

The author of the enclave theory for cooling the war in Vietnam said present talk of "sealing off" the country is another word for securing it, which he said would take a million men. "Then they'd want to clean out the enemy, and that would take 2.5 million, and from then on . . ."

"At the present rate, we'll be there 10 years," he said.

He said that if the United States concentrates its forces in strong points it now holds, such as Da Nang and Cam Ranh Bay, it would be in a strong position to negotiate a peaceful solution that would allow both sides to avoid destruction with honor.

Senator Urges Cutting U.S. European Troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. James B. Pearson today called for substantial withdrawal of American troops from Western Europe, where he said they serve, "in effect, as hostages" to the U.S. pledge to defend against any Soviet attack.

"If the credibility of our pledge to resist Communism in Europe is still not established," the Kansas Republican said, "there is little hope that it ever will be."

Pearson, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said that withdrawal of "a substantial portion of our 350,000 troops and their 236,000 dependents from Western Europe" would go far toward curbing the nation's balance of payments deficit and help shore up the dollar abroad.

In addition, he said, if more troops are to be sent to Vietnam —and he emphasized he was not endorsing such a move —"common sense would seem to dictate that our military commitment in Western Europe should be considered as part of the pool from which these needs should be drawn rather than continuing to treat it as a separate and isolated force not to be tampered with.

"Either some of our military units in Western Europe should be rotated to the United States, therefore freeing units here to be sent to Vietnam, or units in Western Europe should be sent directly to Vietnam," he said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate.

Either way, Pearson said, there would be a reduction in the balance of payments deficit. It would be cheaper, however, to use existing regular units rather than to train new ones.

The Kansas senator said that the net cost of maintaining American troops in Europe in 1966 was $720 million —about half the total balance of payments deficit of $1.4 billion for that year. He predicted that the net dollar cost of keeping troops in Europe for the years 1967 and 1968 again would run to between $700 million and $800 million.

Armored Car Drivers Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Armored car drivers went on strike yesterday against two companies operating in San Francisco, San Mateo County and the East Bay.

The contract dispute involves Brinks, Inc. and Loomis Armored Car Service and 180 Teamsters Union drivers.

The strike halted money deliveries between major companies and banks Monday. The flow of cash and securities slowed to a near halt in local business and financial circles.

The drivers are seeking higher pay and other benefits. Both sides were scheduled to meet today with a federal mediator.

Oriole Pitchers Bring Back Memories Of '66

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's only baseball spring training, but Baltimore pitchers are bringing back 1966 memories, erasing 1967 nightmares and raising 1968 hopes.

Oriole hurlers extended their shutout string to 23 innings yesterday before the Chicago White Sox scored once, not enough as Baltimore beat the Sox 2-1 for its fourth straight victory.

Tom Phoebus, following a pair of two-hit shutouts, had Chicago blanked for four innings before Ken Berry homered for a 1-1 tie. But Phoebus, rookie Roger Nelson and Brad Dillman stopped the Sox the rest of the way, and two errors by Chicago pitcher Gary Peters on a sacrifice bunt set up Mark Belanger's winning sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Phoebus, Stu Miller, who pitched one shutout inning Friday, and Eddie Watt are the only pitchers involved in the whitewash string that remain from the 1966 staff that pitched Baltimore to the pennant and world series championship.

During last year's disappointing sixth place finish when sore arms and injuries hampered the hurlers, the Orioles came up with many new faces. They include Nelson, Dillman, Jim Hardin, Gene Brabender, John O'Donoghue and Pete Richert, the other weekend shutout pitchers.

At the same time Detroit's pennant hopes suffered a blow when slugging Willie Horton bruised a shoulder tendon in a 5-1 loss to Atlanta as Tito Francona homered and later scored the winning run.

Horton, injured while making a tumbling catch in left field, is expected to be out a week as injuries that kept him out of about 50 games last year continued to plague him.

California lost pitcher Jim McGlothlin in the second inning with a muscle spasm in his back, but Chuck Hinton's bat powered the Angels to a 9-3 victory over San Francisco. Hinton drove in six runs with three hits.

Houston had its eight-game winning streak snapped when Philadelphia broke a 2-2 tie with eight runs in the last three innings for an 8-2 triumph as Grant Jackson and rookie Larry Colton combined on a three-hitter.

Rich Nye, the Chicago Cubs' pitching discovery in their 1967 surprise finish, held Cleveland to six hits and no walks in eight innings in a 7-2 victory.

Joe Rudi bounced a hit over shortstop Gene Alley's head in the seventh inning and Oakland beat Pittsburgh 4-3.

Bob Bailey used more power to pull Los Angeles past the New York Yankees 4-1 as he slugged a triple and a homer. Alan Foster blanked the Yanks on five hits for seven innings.

St Louis and Minnesota won a pair of extra inning games. The Cardinals nudged Cincinnati 7-6 on Floyd Wicker's winning hit in the 10th after the Cardinals tied in the ninth on Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer.

In the only night game, Mike Epstein homered and Washington bottled the New York Mets 2-0.

JIM GILMARTIN

Chivalrous Esquires Of Pasture Pool

FAME — It isn't often we find a local angle in Esquire Magazine, but the April issue of the slick for men contains TWO beautiful Marin items for the price of one.

In a special golf section, Esquire gives considerable ink to Harry "Jake" Obitz, former San Rafael resident who has hit the jackpot as a teaching professional; and Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael, promising young touring pro.

Obitz is director of golf at King's Inn, Freeport on Grand Bahama Island. Esquire describes him as "a muscular extrovert" and delves on Jake's famous "The Swing's The Thing" theory. "In essence," the story goes, "the . . . theory, which Obitz so passionately vocalizes, is that the golf swing cannot be broken down into various components, such as head down, straight left arm, and follow-through. These components are not the causes of a true swing at all but rather the result of one. People miss-hit golf shots not because there was something wrong with their swing — such as, say, their foot work — but because they didn't swing at all."

Complete With Color Photos

The story, complete with color photos of the 50ish San Rafael native, quotes Obitz: "I teach that you have to swing your hands, and that the clubhead will take care of itself. Wrist action, shifting the weight, the pivot — all that is so much nonsense, pal o' mine. You can't divide the golf swing into parts and still have a swing. A cat is a cat. If you dissect it, you'll have blood and guts and bones all over the place. But you won't have any cat. Get the point, pal o' mine?"

To stress his point, the story continues, Obitz can hit impressive golf shots one-handed, standing on one foot, and/or while looking you straight in the eye. With the ball teed up, he can hit a 150-yard shot fully under control with a putter. And he can consistently drive a ball 230 yards while sitting on a chair.

He's King Of King's Inn

Obitz is king of the King's Inn's fantastic golf facilities which include two championship courses in play, a third under construction and practically finished, and a fourth in the works. He and partner Dick Farley employ a staff of eighteen—six assistant professionals, six salesladies and six shop assistants.

The story also mentions the Obitz Special — a 40-minute production that he and his staff perform in Rockette precision, with refreshing theatricality, hitting hundred of balls to demonstrate that the one categorical imperitive in golf is not to hit the ball but to swing the clubhead. The ball will take care of itself. Obitz honed his show to show-biz perfection with the help of such TV personalities as Ed Sullivan, Jackie Gleason and former boss Fred Waring.

Cerrudo Waiting In Wings

Esquire cited the 23-year-old Cerrudo in a section devoted to "Six bright young extras waiting in the wings for Palmer to break a leg."

It noted, " . . . in 1966 he tied for third in the National Amateur. On the last green, thinking he had no chance for the title with the way people were scoring behind him, he carelessly addressed an eighteen-inch putt without lining it up and never touched the hole, a witless error he is not likely to make as a pro if he expects to stay a pro. This mistake cost him a chance to engage in a playoff for the title with Deane Beman and Gary Cowan, who eventually won."

It Lists Ron's Achievements

The story also lists Cerrudo's considerable achievements, including runnerup in the 1967 British Amateur and a berth on this country's World Amateur Team and added: "An unusually graceful swinger for one so young, Cerrudo has the effortless action reminiscent of Gene Littler when he first turned pro. He has only to lose his boyish impulsiveness to round out as a playing pro."

So, at least two Marinites may now be classified as chivalrous esquires of pasture pool.

Esquire's lone mistake was that it neglected to mention Obitz' and Cerrudo's San Rafael association.

Quite A Show By Jean Lew

College of Marin's gymnastics team came up with a big, surprise showing in the 12-team Northern California Regional Compulsory Gymnastics Meet at San Jose State last Saturday.

The Marin seven-girl team finished fourth among six Class B teams that competed for the title, behind four-year schools San Francisco State, Sacramento State and San Jose State.

Leading the way was Jean Lew, the only College of Marin entrant in the high intermediate level. She practically made a clean sweep of things, taking first in the vaulting, balanced beam, uneven parallels and the all-around and second in the free exercise.

NBA PLAYOFFS

Pistons Even Celt Series; Lakers Go 2-Up On Bulls

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dave DeBusschere's big play —which almost backfired—ignited a Detroit last-ditch drive yesterday that gave the Pistons an even break in their National Basketball Association playoff with the Boston Celtics.

DeBusschere, who scored 23 points in the 126-116 Pistons' victory, made his move with 2:46 to play and Detroit leading 114-112.

He stole an errant Boston pass and drove in all alone toward the basket and dunked the ball—and missed.

FOLLOW UP

Teammate Eddie Miles, though, racing down court, snared the rebound and dropped it in for a 116-112 Piston edge. Detroit outscored the Celtics 10-4 the rest of the way to tie the best-of-7 Eastern Division series at one game apiece.

In Western Division playoff action in Los Angeles, the Lakers took a 2-0 lead with an 111-106 victory over Chicago.

"I don't know what happened. I just blew the shot," DeBusschere said. "I guess I'll just have to practice my dunk shots," he added with a grin.

BALANCED ATTACK

Dave Bing topped Detroit with 24 points and five other Pistons were in double figures. Sam Jones led the Celtics with 18 points and three Boston players, including player-Coach Bill Russell fouled out. The others were Tom Sanders and Bailey Howell.

Russell picked up his fifth foul early in the third period and played sparingly until he fouled out late in the fourth along with Sanders and Howell.

"When the Celtics got in foul trouble, I told the boys to drive down the middle more to force fouls," Donnie Butcher, Detroit coach said. "Their big men had to be careful and relax on defense and of course that had to help us," he added.

IN BOSTON

The third game of the series will be played in Boston tomorrow night.

The Lakers, who led all the way until a furious Bull surge tied the score at 100-all with 3:33 to play, got clutch baskets from Jerry West and Archie Clark to gain the triumph.

West, who finished with a game-high 35 points, got a three-point play to put the Lakers up 109-104 and ice their second straight victory in the best-of-7 series.

A free throw by Elgin Baylor and a Clark layup broke the 100-100 tie and Clark added two free throws with 11 seconds left.

Chicago's Flynn Robinson with 32 points and Keith Erickson with 18 led the late Bull rally. Baylor finished with 26 points and 16 rebounds and Clark had 15 points.

George Archer Blazes To Pensacola Victory

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Lanky George Archer says he would like to cut down on his golfing trips. But he admits he hates to stay home and miss out on all that money offered on the pro tour.

"I should take a week off after every four or five tournaments," the new champion of the Pensacola Open said after his closing 65 gave him a $16,000 payoff yesterday. "But when I sit around home for a couple of weeks I get to thinking about the money I'm not making."

Archer almost passed up the Pensacola tournament, but his wife, Donna, talked him into playing.

"I had a premonition that he might win," said Mrs. Archer. "Beside, we had flown to Florida and I didn't want us to fly back after just one tournament."

Archer almost dropped out in the first round when he became sick to his stomach while playing, but he shot a 66 and decided to keep going. He added rounds

Police Pull Houston Coach From Court In ABA Game

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took the police to get Houston Coach Slater Martin off the floor, but the referees weren't impressed.

Near the end of Dallas' 115-97 victory over Houston in the American Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs last night, Martin became enraged at a shoving battle between Jerry Pettway of the Mavericks and John Beasley of Dallas.

Dallas already was way ahead, but Martin took up the defense of Pettway and in the course of things grabbed referee Andy Hershock and turned him around.

Police were called to eject Martin, but no foul was called either on Martin's action or the shoving incident that started it.

In the Eastern Division playoffs of the ABA yesterday, Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-5 semifinal series, beating Indiana 146-127.

Giants Lose, But Athletics Triumph

Only Two Sound S.F. Catchers

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—When spring training began, the San Francisco Giants were rich in catchers but today Manager Herman Franks finds himself with only two healthy receivers—Jack Hiatt and Don Bryant.

Hiatt was expected to start as the Giants, 9-8 in pre-season play, take on the Chicago Cubs, 9-8, at Phoenix.

Dick Dietz, the No. 1 catcher, has missed three games and the Giants said yesterday he has high blood pressure. He was to see the doctor today.

JAMMED FINGER

The No. 2 catcher, Bob Barton, is still suffering from a s finger he jammed several days ago in making a tag.

The Giants ended a three-game series with the California Angels yesterday at Holtville, Calif., as the Angels won 9-3 on Chuck Hinton's hitting.

Hinton had three of the 15 Angel hits and drove in six runs. Eight of the Angel runs came off Gaylord Perry, who went seven innings. Reliever Lindy McDaniel gave up the other run.

HITTERS

Jim Fregosi, Rick Reichardt, Bubba Morton and Jay Johnstone all collected two hits apiece for the Angels.

However, the Angels finished their 17th game still minus a home run this spring.

The Giants got two unearned runs and another run on singles by Jim Davenport and Jim Ray Hart in the fourth.

Drake, Redwood Golfers Triumph

Drake High School downed Marin Catholic in a non-league dual golf meet yeaterday while Redwood was taking care of Washington and Lincoln in an 18-hole, eight-man three way meet in San Francisco.

The Pirates won, 215-226. Bob MacLean, Drake's fourth man, and Jeff O'Donnell, the Wildcats' second man, shared medalist honors at Meadow Club with 39s.

Paced by Wayne Duerson's 79, the Giants finished with a 668 score to 711 for Washington and 763 for Lincoln.

S.F. Must Solve Puzzle Of Big Z

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors must solve the puzzle of the Big Z tonight if they are to go ahead again in the best-of-seven semifinal playoff series against St. Louis.

St. Louis Coach Richie Guerin said the Hawks were able to even the series Sunday night by solving San Francisco's defensive puzzle.

The Hawks offered a puzzle of their own as 6-8 Zelmo Beaty scored a career high of 46 points, 17 in the fourth quarter.

The Hawks, regular season champions in the National Basketball Association Western Division, worked out in San Francisco yesterday.

They worked on bringing the ball up court quickly to prevent San Francisco from having a chance to set up its defense. Guerin said the Hawks' failure to get the ball up court quickly hurt them in the opening game of the playoffs, won by the Warriors.

Tipoff is 8:30 p.m. at the Cow Palace. The teams play in the Oakland Arena Friday night. The fifth game will be played Sunday in St. Louis.

Converted Softballer In A's Plans

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Ed Sprague, 22-year-old rookie whose pitching talent was discovered by an Army softball umpire in Germany, took the pitching win in the Oakland Athletics 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh yesterday.

Sprague lives in Hayward, within 15 minutes of the Athletics' new home in the Oakland Coliseum. The A's drafted him No. 1 from the St. Louis Cardinals after his 11-7 season with Modesto in the California League.

BACK UP MAN

Oakland's manager Bob Kennedy is counting on Sprague to back up Jack Aker in short inning relief when American League play starts next month.

Sprague worked only the seventh inning against the Pirates, shutting them out on one hit. The hit was the first yielded by Sprague in three one-inning relief jobs this spring.

Sprague pitched shutout ball over seven innings. He has worked in two B squad games.

Sprague never tried baseball at Sunset High School in Hayward. He was catching a softball game during Army service in Germany when Hal Collins, the umpire, told him he had a real good arm and should try pitching.

Collins helped Sprague enroll in a Florida baseball school and the St. Louis Cards signed him there before he completed the course.

DECISIVE RUN

Aker, the veteran, safeguarded the A's 4-3 margin through the final two innings against the Pirates. Joe Rudi's bouncer over Gene Alley's head in the seventh drove in Bert Campaneris with the decisive run.

Oakland had scored three times in the second on Danny Cater's double, a walk and singles by Phil Roof and John Donaldson.

The Pirates scored two in the second on singles by Alley and Jose Pagan and Willie Stargell's double. Carl Taylor tripled in the sixth and scored on Manny Jiminez' pinch single.

It's A Good Thing UCLA Was 'Complacent'

To give you an idea how the "great" game went, midway in the first period, UCLA put in a kid with glasses to guard Elvin Hayes.

The bravest thing I've seen in sports in a long time was Houston coming out for the second half.

Houston better get the guy who writes the military communiques at home. In a case like this, you say "despite heavy losses, the enemy is now answering the phone in the embassy."

THE SCORE was 101-69, but it wasn't that close.

It was supposed to be Dempsey-Firpo, St. George and the Dragon, the 1926 World series. It was more like Dempsey-Fulton. The Dragon turned out to be a lizard photographed through a telescope.

UCLA wore out two baskets. UCLA coach John Wooden reached clean down in the student body for his last five players. He could have sent in a crew in handcuffs and still not kept the score under three figures.

THE GAME proved what everybody already knew: Ferdinand Lewis Alcindor is the best college basketball team in history. The second most majestic peak in the state of California kept sweeping Houston players off the slopes like a monsoon raking down Everest.

Coach Adolph Rupp of Kentucky had described the UCLA team as complacent. It's a good thing they were or we might have been there till dawn adding the score. If this team ever gets aroused, we may have a shutout.

ALCINDOR CAME on the court looking bored and, as soon as Houston got the ball, we found out why. If they ever play again, Lew will bring a good book. The last time he played Houston, he only had one eye. The next time, he may bring a blindfold.

The game was full of suspense right up until the time they left the dressing room. They put a fellow named "Spain" on Alcindor but you have to say the reign of Spain was mainly plain. I hope he never has to describe Alcindor in court because they may hang the wrong guy. As far as Spain is concerned, Alcindor is just another hit-and-run driver. He didn't even catch the number.

I'M SURE Elvin Hayes is a very fine basketball player but Friday night Houston might as well have had Gabby. They kept him out on Figueroa street all night. The Bruin press was so aggressive that, a couple of times the ushers were looking suspiciously at Hayes as if they were about to say "you got a ticket, bub?"

THE HOUSTON coach, Guy Lewis, sat there with a towel to his head all night long. The wonder is, he didn't throw it in. Someone asked if he missed his regular guard. It was like asking Custer if he could have used one more trooper. Anybody who was ineligible for this last stand should thank the profs.

If they take the Houston team to see Mt. Whitney, they're not going to be at all impressed — they may even say, "It's nice—but until we see it jump we'll hold our judgment."

ALCINDOR, WHO wasn't doing anything much at the time, paused with 7 minutes to go to wave one finger aloft (being careful not to poke it up in the lights as it extended some 12 inches up from the palm) to indicate "We're No. 1."

BUT I WOULDN'T say UCLA is No. 1. Not until I see them beat the Philadelphia 76ers. Now, THERE'S a real tossup for you!

It's a pity Alcindor, Mike Warren and Lucius Allen aren't going in the Olympics. They might have done real well in it.

Can Psychologist Win Flag For Bucs?

By JACK HAND

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Pittsburgh hired a psychologist to test the Pirates' motivations, traded for Jim Bunning and brought in a farm-tested manager to handle the club in an all-out bid for the 1968 pennant.

When you finish sixth with the best hitters in baseball, desperate measures obviously are in order.

The true and false tests by the psychologist were designed to help the players become better at their work. The trade for Bunning was expected to provide a leader for a floundering pitching staff. The hiring of Larry Shepard to manage the club was a promotion for organization man, delayed enroute. "There is not a man in camp who doesn't feel we can be in the battle for the championship," reported Shepard at the training base. "We know we can do it."

Shepard has managed most of the men at some stage of their careers. He spent years in the farm system, and finally moved over to the Phillies last year as pitching coach. During his stay with the Phils he developed a new appreciation of Bunning.

The Bucs acquired Bunning, 36, for Woody Fryman and three rookies including the highly touted shortstop Don Money.

Shepard, a minor league pitcher himself is devoting a good share of his attention to that department. The Pirates' staff was ninth in the league last year, as compared to the batting average of .277, tops in either league.

The Pirates think Bunning will take the pressure off Bob Veale, who may respond with a big year. Al McBean, moved from bullpen to the starting line, is Shepard's No. 3 starter at the moment.

Tommie Sisk and Steve Blass, who started 16 and relieved 16 times, round out the starting staff.

Shepard believes his bullpen has been strengthened by two other deals that brought Ron Kline from Minnesota and Dave Wickersham from Detroit. They will give aid to 40-year-old Roy Face and Juan Pizarro. Prospects Bruce Dal Canton, Bob Moose and Luke Walker, are getting a look.

Gene Alley's continued problems with his right shoulder cause some concern. He missed most of the early spring games at shortstop.

With Alley's shoulder trouble and Bill Mazeroski's muscle pull, the pirates' infield has been a jumble. Maz's injury is nothing serious and the club assumes that the All-Star second-short combo will be back in high gear before the opener.

Maury Wills is the third baseman and Donn Clendenon is at first with Jose Pagan the top utility spare.

Roberto Clemente, winner of three batting titles in the last four years, is the big man with the bat. Willie Stargell will be in left and Matty Alou and Manny Mota will platoon in center. Stargell slumped from .315 to .271 last year and missed the All-Star team despite 20 homers and 67 RBI.

Jerry May will do the catching. He won the first string job with a .271 season. Chris Cannizzaro, Manny Sanguillen and Gary Kolb are battling for the other jobs.

Close Track Meet Expected At Cal

PALO ALTO (AP) — The giant-killer could hold the key to San Jose State's chances against California in Saturday's dual track meet at Berkeley.

Bud Winter, San Jose State coach, referred to high jumper Don Lindsey as the giant-killer yesterday at a meeting of the Northern California Track Writers.

Lindsey has defeated 7-foot jumpers the last three meets. "And he'll face a real giant Saturday," said Winter.

Winter called California's Clarence Johnson the giant. Johnson leaped 7-1 last Saturday as California won an invitational meet over San Diego State and Nevada.

Johnson, a 7-3 jumper last year as a freshman, played basketball and has been bothered by shin splints. California Coach Sam Bell explained that Johnson had been out for track 10 days but had "only three good days of practice."

"Closer than a dead heat in the 50-yard dash," is the way Winter described the upcoming meet, and he predicted "real dogfights" in the 880 and mile relay.

San Jose State's mile relay team of Jeff Peo, Lee Evans, Jack Mulloy and John Bambury ran 3:11.3 in winning that event last weekend at the Santa Barbara Relays, where the Spartans placed second behind Southern California in team points.

San Jose State has not been beaten in the mile relay in two years. California's mile relay team has a best of 3:12.1.

In the 880, San Jose State's Mulloy, 1:52.0, and Paul Myers, 1:52.5, goes against California's Devone Smith, 1:50.0, Jerry Tallon, 1:50.8, Lavell Jackson, 1:50.1, and John Diehl, 1:52.0.

Winter, who said he doped the meet out at 69-69 going into the mile relay, said Ricky Rogers would be out two weeks with a pulled hamstring muscle. Rogers has a best of 14.0 in the high hurdles and 24-11 in the long jump.

While San Jose State loses a man, the Bears will have Pat Weddle at full strength. He has a best of 48.7 in the 440 and runs a leg on the mile relay team. He has recovered from a pulled muscle, said Bell.

Bell, assuming the underdog role, projected a point total of 85-60 in favor of San Jose State. California won last year's meet.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARIAN LADEWIG

A good team woman is valued highly. An example of how a person can earn such a label: Don't get so downhearted by a poor game that you quit trying. Even if you are 40 pins below your average, the spare that you get in the ninth frame might be the difference between your team winning or losing a game. Every participant in every sport has slumps. These low-score periods can be worsened, however, if the bowler thinks only of herself and fails to do the best she can at all times.

Hayes To Skip Olympics; Sets $300,000 Price Tag

HOUSTON (AP)—Elvin Hayes says he will not compete for a spot on the Olympic basketball team because he needs money and he needs to work on his game to "make a pro team."

He said it was his own decision and that he had not been contacted by anyone who had proposed that Negro athletes boycott the Olympics.

"It's not color or anything like that," said Hayes, college basketball's player of the year. "It's my own decision. I only hope the public can understand my problem."

TWO TEAMS

Meanwhile, two professional teams have announced they will try to sign the Houston Cougar star who is college basketball's second highest scorer in history.

The San Diego Rockets won the coin toss yesterday for the first draft choice in the National Basketball Association and immediately announced they would try to sign the 6-8 star.

The Houston Mavericks of the American Basketball League also say they have the negotiation rights for Hayes although the ABA draft will not be until April 8.

Hayes says he favors the NBA and for the first time has set a definite price tag on himself. He said he will ask for $300,000 over three years.

"All my life I have wanted to play against the best," he said. "In order to play against the best I want to go into the NBA."

Hayes made his decision not to participate in the Olympic trials upon returning Sunday from Los Angeles where the top ranked Cougars had their 31-0 record spoiled in losses to UCLA and Ohio State in the NCAA semifinals and third place games.

"I need the money that a pro contract would bring me and I need it pretty fast," he said. "I have a wife and a child to support and basketball is the way I can support them best."

"I'm not boycotting the Olympics at all, as far as the race question is concerned," he added. "I wish I could play. The guys that are planning to boycott it are single men who have only themselves to think about. I have to feed two other people besides myself."

Hayes said he had done a lot of thinking on the matter the past 10 days.

"I've said several different things and have been quoted as saying some things I didn't say," he said. "But this is my final decision.

"I've made up my mind and my decision is final."

It's S.F. Vs. Spokane In AAU Semifinals

DENVER (AP) — The Armed Forces All-Stars will meet Akron, Ohio, and Spokane plays San Francisco tonight in the semifinals of the 61st annual National AAU Basketball Tournament.

Akron, the defending champion, advanced to the semifinals with an 89-70 shellacking of Los Angeles while the All-Stars were downing Milwaukee 92-70.

Spokane pulled the first upset of the tournament by eliminating perennial favorite Bartlesville, Okla., 57-52. San Francisco used a 99-97 victory over Denver-Capital to advance to the semifinals.

Akron built up 10 and 20-point leads almost effortlessly against Los Angeles as the Goodyears rolled to what they hope will be their third straight title.

They were pressed only once at 28-26 with 6:13 left in the half. Calvin Fowler led the way with 19 points. Jay Carty, Los Angeles center, hit 18 for the Chippers.

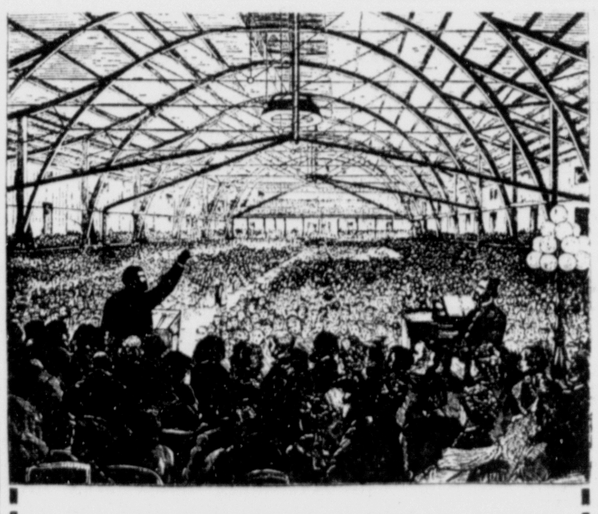
Rob McDonald collected four points in the last 27 seconds to preserve Spokane's win over Bartlesville. McDonald ended the evening with 14 points while teammate Gary Lechman hit 16.

The Oilers were paced by Bill Kusleika with 15 points.

The All-Stars encountered rough going only once against Milwaukee. The Wisconsiners moved to 18-17 early in the game only to see the servicemen hit 18 straight points.

A missed layup in the last second cost Denver-Capital the chance to go into overtime with San Francisco. Denver had to rally from an 82-66 deficit before the final shot.

Mike Carson led San Francisco with 20.



Nancy Greene To End Competitive Career

ROSSLAND, B.C. (AP) — Nancy Greene, Canada's ski queen, said yesterday she will retire from international competition after the remaining two World Cup meets.

Miss Greene, 24, who won gold and silver medals in the 1968 Winter Olympics at Grenoble, France, will ski before her hometown fans at a World Cup international meet that begins Thursday on Red Mountain.

"It was a tough decision to make," said Miss Greene, who began skiing on Red Mountain when she was only 2½ years old.

"When I was at Aspen the weekend before last, the thought that I might be skiing my last downhill race... well it almost made me cry."

The Rossland meet will be the first World Cup race for the Canadian girl since the Aspen, Colo., meet and she won't have the opportunity to ski any more downhill races. The remaining two meets consist of slalom and giant slalom only.

Miss Greene, who arrived here yesterday from Sun Valley, Idaho, said she has been considering retirement for the past two weeks.

"I know I have to stop skiing cometime — but it's really going to be hard," she said in an interview.

Miss Greene, the defending World Cup champion, said that after the final cup race at Heavenly Valley, Calif., she will return to Notre Dame University at Nelson, B.C., and write examinations. She is in her freshman year and is taking history.

Oakland Opens Defense Of Soccer Title Sunday

Can the Oakland Clippers repeat their 1967 success in the merged North American Soccer League?

Will a group of 19 and 20-year-olds with no previous professional experience provide the Dallas Tornado with a competitive team?

These are a few of the questions to be answered during North America's second season of professional soccer, which gets underway Saturday.

The season will open with a pair of Saturday night games at Dallas and Atlanta. The Tornados will host their Texas rivals, the Houston Stars, while the Atlanta Chiefs will meet the Detroit Cougars.

Four more teams will swing into action the following afternoon when Kansas City plays at San Diego and Boston at Oakland, and the remaining teams will open the next weekend. The regular season will extend through Sept. 8.

Altogether, the 17 teams will play a total of 272 games— 16 at home for each team.

At the conclusion of the regular season, the winners of the Atlantic and Lakes Divisions will meet for the Eastern Conference title and the Pacific and Gulf Division leaders will clash for the Western Conference crown. Both games are set for Sept. 14. One week later the two conference winners will meet for the league championship.

The 17-team circuit, which is headed by Dick Walsh and Ken Macker, presidents of the Eastern and Western Conferences, respectively, is divided on a strictly geographical basis.

The Atlantic Division includes five cities—Atlanta, Baltimore, Washington, New York and Boston. The Lakes Division consists of the four member cities situated on the Great Lakes—Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Toronto.

The Pacific Division embraces San Diego, Los Angeles, Oakland and Vancouver, while the Gulf Division includes Dallas, Houston, Kansas City and St. Louis.

The Many Chores Of Prep Coaches

By GARY TISCHLER

Knute Rockne, alias Pat O'Brien, ruined it for coaches.

So did Bud Wilkinson, Casey Stengel, Red Auerbach, Bones McKinney and most recently Vince Lombardi.

They turned a profession into a myth.

Aided and abetted by spotlights, money and people like yours truly, a coach has become some kind of a prefabricated species that is not quite human, fully equipped with a set image.

In one form or another, we have all seen the myth promoted or in action:

GLEEFUL GRIN

A coach is a mixture of sadist (the gleeful grin of Lombardi); a saint with direct access to God (on the seventh day, that being the day of the NFL game of the week, he sat in the Green Bay lockerroom); a tremendous dramatist and motivator (Win one for the Gipper); rabble rouser (go out there and kill 'em); wise, white-haired gentle leader (Wilkenson, until he ran for Senator); a historic screamer on the verge of a thickly-veined breakdown (McKinney during any and all games); a funny little character, all wrinkles and evasive wisecracks (Stengel, or any coach prior to the big game), and a man who wants above all to win (Auerbach smugly lighting his victory stogie in the fourth quarter).

HE'S SUPERMAN

They call you coach and you are all these things.

Which is grossly unfair and stupid.

Especially when you are talking about high school coaches of any kind.

There is a general cliche that runs something on the order that high school coaches mold the future of America, that what a boy learns from his coach leaves a lasting impression.

Cliche it may be, but simply on a basis of frequency it is not so far from the truth.

A high school athlete probably spends more time with a coach than he does any other teacher in school during a given sports season.

It involves a process of direct communication and contact. And you cannot communicate with a molded myth.

MANY PROBLEMS

Although he makes considerably less money than Mr. Lombardi, a high school coach has just as many problems and challenges, on another level.

He handles pretty vital raw material. His tools, as such, are living, breathing adolescents. Young adults. Youth.

It requires delicate handling.

His job, on the surface, would seem to be that of a court jester in the education realm. He coaches or teaches a game. Success, at least in part, is winning.

Each coach, if he is willing to detach himself from the myth, will approach his job differently.

His approach, his character and his special way of seeing things are going to be the important things in a field where technical knowledge and proficiency are no real measure of success, where talent is a peculiar quality that defies definition.

It is a job, despite all the cliches and legends, that allows for very little generalization.

DISCIPLINE

What can be said is that high school coaches tend to be more or less conservative, if only because their work requires discipline of sorts and organization and because high school athletics are one of the few remaining vestiges of apple-pie-ism, school glory and hayrides in a quickly-changing adolescent scene.

Most coaches have, at one time or another, participated in the sport that they are coaching.

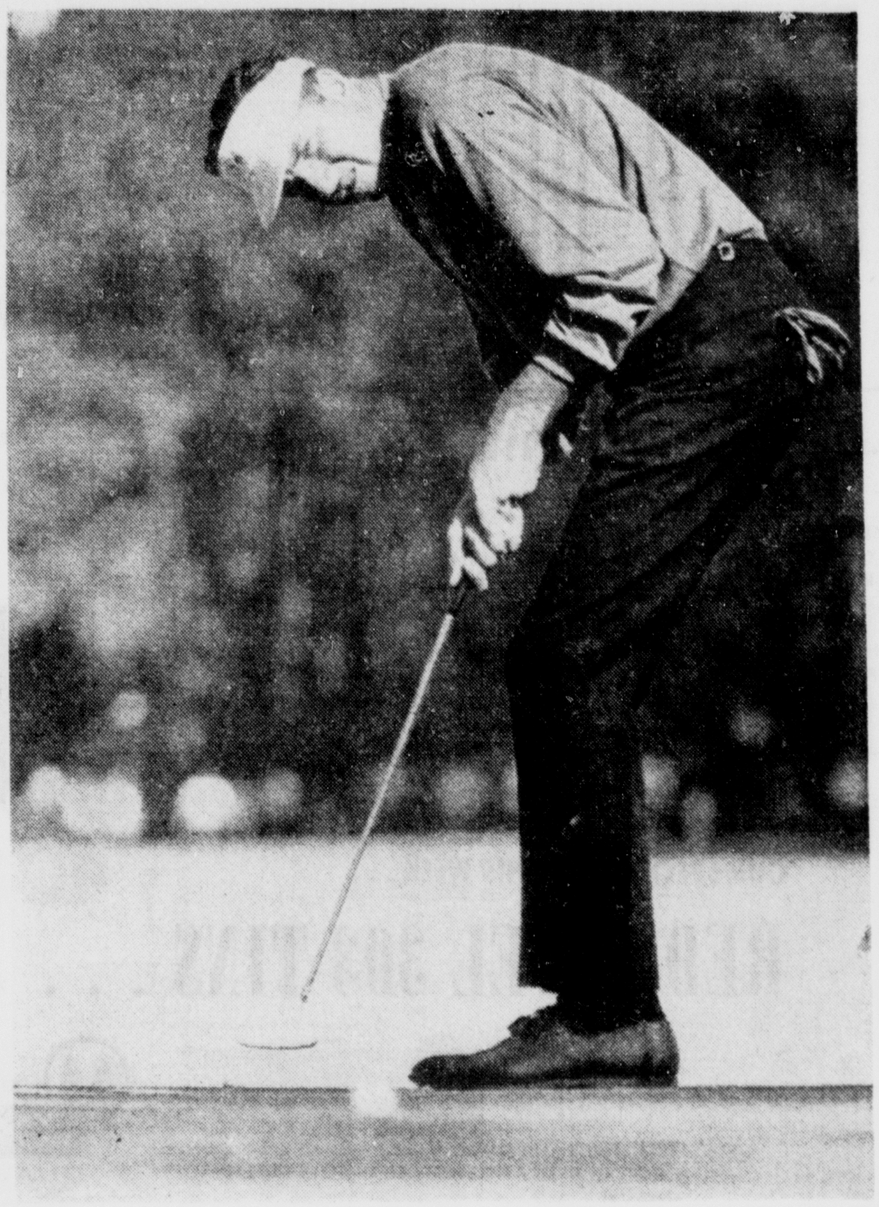
CROSS SECTION

Each coach has problems and methods peculiar to his school and the atmosphere he works in.

From time to time, starting tomorrow, we will try to give a picture of a cross-section of high school coaches in Marin County, with stories on two coaches from each school.

It is in no way an attempt at generalization.

If anything, it is an attempt to show that coaches, those red-faced men on the bench with the funny little charts and won-lost record, are surprisingly enough, human men with unique jobs.



BENDING FOR AN EAGLE—Californian George Archer bends over to putt for an eagle on the 14th green of the Penacola Open enroute to winning first-place money with a 20-under par, 268 total. (UPI Telephoto) of 68 and 69 before his closing burst gave him the title with a 72-hole total of 268, 20 strokes under par and the lowest total on the tour this year.

BLAZING FINISH

The 6-foot-6 cowboy from Gilroy, Calif., won the championship with a blazing finish which he needed to edge veteran Dave Marr and young Tony Jacklin of Britain by a shot.

Archer, who trailed both of the other contenders most of the round, shot in front with a closing string of birdies. He sank birdie putts of five, eight and five feet on the last three holes.

TIE

Marr finished with a 65 to tie Jacklin, who turned in a 66. They won $7,800 each for their 269 totals. Jacklin, making his best showing ever, reportedly is the first English golfer to finish as high as second on the American tour.

The 23-year-old Britisher missed a chance to tie for the title when he overshot the 17th green and took a bogey.

"I was just hoping for a playoff, until I saw that Jacklin had taken a bogey," Archer said.

Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael finished with a 69 and 280, good for $934.

San Jose Golfer Leads Tourney

SALINAS (UPI) — Scotty McBeath of San Jose fired a sizzling three-under-par 69 yesterday to grab the first round lead in the 54-hole Northern California PGA Medal Play championships.

The teaching pro at Cambrian Golf Course in San Jose shot rounds of 34-35 to take a two-stroke lead over Gary Olson of Oakdale.

In a three-way tie for third with par 72 were Tal Smith, Oakland; Ty Caplin, El Cerrito and Buzz Carless, Visalia.

Famed Race Car Designer Dies

MODENA, Italy (AP) — Vittorio Bellentani, one of Italy's best known racing car designers, died today in this north Italian town. He was 62.

Bellentani collaborated with Enzo Ferrari, owner of the famous Ferrari racing stable, in building the first Ferrari racers.

Bellentani's tenure with Ferrari lasted from 1946 to 1951. He then went to another famous auto factory, Maserati, for which he designed formula-one racers in which Argentine driver Manuel Fangio won a world championship.

Terrific Traffic For Salmon; Rockfishing Boat Hits Jackpot

STEVENS

The skipper of a private cruiser was lamenting the unusually large number of boats trolling for salmon in the outside waters. "So much disturbance in the water that it's a wonder anyone caught fish," he said. One of his guests said: "It's a big ocean, Frank!" That, of course is true, but it is also true that only a very small part of the big ocean was populated with salmon. Skipper Frank was referring to the traffic in the general area of Double Point on Friday. In spite of the "disturbance" in the water off Double Point most boats took fish on Friday, but the take was somewhat lower than on Saturday. As far as I could determine, the high boat on Saturday was the Sunrise out of Caruso's Bait, Boat and Tackle headquarters at Sausalito. Tony reported other boats out of his place on Saturday came in with six, seven, eight, or nine fish. Most action was had off the Towers.

TONY CARUSO also squelched the rumor of a run of herring. "A surprise run of anchovies, the first of the year, may have caused the rumor," he said.

HAL BOENNER of the Lee Anderson boat and bait headquarters in Oakland reported a fairly good report of salmon trolling on Saturday. "The Morning Star, had four salmon, the Hazel B had five to ten pounds, the Ge-Ge was high boat with fourteen salmon to ten pounds or more, and the Sea Wolf unloaded thirteen salmon to sixteen pounds."

THE BIG NEWS reported by Boenner was the catch of the party boat, Anne Vee, that went for rockfish; 280 assorted rockfish and 16 ling cods.

Also worthy of mention was the stint of the Duke Two, seven bass to ten pounds, all caught on grass shrimps, and the trolling catch of the R.S.P. that had seven bass to six pounds.

THE CONSENSUS of old-time Sacramento River fishermen is an optimistic one. Although the lower Sacramento River is still somewhat higher than normal, already quite a few nice stripers have been taken and the word is out to expect the annual runs of stripers any day, now.

REPORTS HAVE it that action on salmon in the upper Sacramento River is slow but that such fish that have been caught are hefty.

Inclement weather slowed and almost killed chances of scoring at Lake Berryessa; warmer weather and water is needed to increase action of cats, trout and blackies. Ditto Clear Lake, but the crappie catches remain excellent there.

Today is Tuesday, March 26, the 86th day of 1968 with 280 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1892, poet Walt Whitman died in Camden, N.J., at the age of 73.

In 1953, Dr. Jonas Salk announced a new vaccine he claimed was capable of immunizing people against polio.

In 1965, President Johnson ordered the Ku Klux Klan investigated after four men were arrested in the murder of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo in Alabama.

A thought for the day: British poet Conventry Patmore said, "None thrives for long on the happiest dream."

KING TAKES

Dummy's king of hearts won the first trick, and declarer led a trump to the ten, ruffed a heart with the king of spades and drew the rest of the trumps, discarding a low club from dummy.

South then cashed the ace of diamonds and led his other diamond. West, a player of international rank, casually played his low diamond, and declarer tried a finesse with dummy's ten, losing to the jack.

PERCENTAGE PLAY

This was the percentage play (although playing the queen would have assured the slam) first because West is just as likely to have the jack as the king of diamonds; and, second, because if West does have the king he may play it or give the play some thought (which would be just as revealing).

RETURNS HEART

East, another ranking expert, returned a heart to declarer's ace; and now it was up to South to show his mettle. Since declarer was Lawrence Block, Beverly Hills realtor and bridge enthusiast, the outcome was easy to predict.

Block took the ace of hearts and led his last trump, discarding another club and a low diamond from dummy. West had to reduce to three cards, of which one had to be the king of diamonds. West could therefore save only two clubs.

Block thereupon cashed the king and ace of clubs, and produced the five of clubs to win the last trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one spade.

♠—K 6 3 2
♥—K
♦—Q 10 5 2
♣—K 7 6 3.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three spades.

This shows strong trump support of four or more cards, with a total count of 13 to 16 points. The jump to three is merely invitational if partner bids one spade after you have passed, and in that case a jump to four spades describes your strength better.

Night Driving Peril Higher, Data Shows

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Night travel by automobile is three times more hazardous than during the day in spite of the reduced traffic flow, warns the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau.

The bureau quoted figures from the National Safety Council showing a fatality rate of 10.1 after dark as compared to a rate of 3.8 during daylight.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Packing Stocks Good For Present

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I own Cudahy pfd. and have held it about 5 years. The dividends are in arrears for the same period. In checking, I find that U.S. Smelting has bought a large block of common. Since I am entitled to all the back dividends I just don't see selling. What do you advise? —M.B.

A. I advise you to sit tight for a while. There has been a great deal of interest aroused in the meat-packing stocks by Ling-Temco-Vought's acquisition of Wilson & Co. This was accentuated by the takeover of John Morrell & Co. by AMK Corp. It appears that some of these old-line packers are thoroughly depreciated and that the merger boys are going after them. Cudahy, on its present earnings figure, does not look too cheap, but I advise you to hold in the expectation that one of the conglomerates may become interested.

Q. I am 70 years old and I would appreciate your help and advice. Last year I bought Baxter Laboratories at 40 and it is down to 36. I also bought Vendo at 41½ and it is now down to 24. I am worried, as I cannot afford to lose any money and don't know what to do. —D.U.

A. I am very sorry that you are worried about your finances. All stocks fluctuate, which is the only trait they have in common. I don't believe you need to feel the slightest concern about Baxter Laboratories, which is in the health-care field with built-in growth characteristics. I believe the small decline here is due to market condidtions which have been very poor since January. Vendo is a horse of another color. Sales and earnings were down last year due to softness in the vending machine business and I think recovery will be slow here. In your place I would take the loss and switch to Talon, which has had a splendid growth rate.

Market In Brisk Rise As Trading Steps Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market today closed with a substantial gain, making its first clear-cut rise in six sessions.

Trading was active compared with the slow Monday pace.

Here was the picture near the close:

Gains outnumbered losses by about 2 to 1.

Blue chips and glamor stocks rose on a selective basis. So did gold mining and silver mining issues in response to strength in bullion markets.

The market also was encouraged by Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler's forecast of a record first quarter gain in gross national product and by a projected 21 per cent increase in April auto production.

Imperial Corp. of America, up a fraction, was the most active stock.

Among other active issues, Control Data, Hewlett-Packard, Fairchild Camera and Baxter Laboratories rose 3 or more; E.G. & G. 2; Avnet, Occidental Petroleum, McDonnel Douglas and Schenley a point or so.

IBM gained 8, Xerox 7 and Polaroid about 5.

Prices rose on the American Stock Exchange.

Valued at $250,000, the land and new building will be leased by Wells Fargo under terms which provide for a purchase option in six years. The owner and developer is William B. Stenwick of San Francisco.

Zoellner Construction Co. was low bidder on the project. The 5,614-square-foot building will offer an exterior drive-up teller window, an adjoining 22-car parking area, safe deposit accommodations, night depository and 11 teller stations.

ANOTHER NOVATO financial institution — Santa Rosa Savings and Loan Association — which plans to build at the east side of 101 Highway and Grant Avenue, still has its target date set for an opening on Sept. 15. However, building plans are being modified and there may be a slight delay.

Tiburon Council Opposes $2 Hourly Minimum Plan

The Tiburon City Council last night rejected a recommendation from City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to raise the casual employees wage scale in the city's master salary plan.

Rose's proposal that the minimum hourly wage be $2 instead of $1.50 was put down by Councilman William R. Bremer who said he was thinking of the summer youth-work program to be proposed soon by the parks and recreation commission.

Councilmen voted 4-0 to hold the present minimum wage but to add another step raise at the top, putting the maximum hourly wage at $4 instead of $3.50.

Councilman Thomas E. Drohan was out of town.

The council split over what appeared to be a routine resolution to authorize an agreement and accept a performance bond for construction in El Marinero Assessment District from Ghilotti Bros. Inc. of San Rafael, for $136,000.

A resolution was adopted, but then Councilman Bremer said he wanted more information and sought to put the matter over to the April 8 meeting.

Mayor John S. Hoffmeier said he felt the council had enough information. "This business of passing resolutions and then withdrawing them is silly, Hoffmire said.

Councilmen Rampton W. Harvey and Hoffmire voted against Bremer's motion with councilmen Branwell D. Fanning backing Bremer. With the withdrawal defeated, the resolution stood as passed, Hoffmire announced.

The Tiburon City Council last night also:

REZONING — Introduced an amendment to the zoning ordinance to rezoning two parcels of land in El Marinero subdivision for Thomas and Joan Frouge from a duplex zone to a multiple dwelling zone. The rezoning straightens out the zone's boundary line, which had split off the one and one-quarter acre from three adjoining parcels in the multiple zone, according to Development Administrator Phil V. Scott.

PARK STUDY — Introduced an ordinance to change the zoning on a parcel above the Tiburon Peninsula Club from park zone to multiple dwelling zone for Dr. Robert McNaught "to correct another draughting error," according to Scott. But on request from the audience by Alan Thompson, parks and recreation commissioner, the council remanded the ordinance to the parks and recreation commission for its opinion on the park zone involved, before the second reading of the bill at the council's April 8 meeting.

SCHOOL PARK — Approved in principle construction of a park behind Reed School and authorized the parks and recreation commission to proceed with negotiations with the Reed School District for the two and one-half acres. Mrs. Polly Smith, commission chairman, said the district was willing to give the land to the city to develop a park for joint city-school use.

DISASTER STATION — Approved a recommendation from Sheriff's Lt. William Johansen, who heads the Tiburon sub-station, that the city ask the Tiburon Fire District to authorize a disaster first-aid station at the main firehouse on Tiburon Boulevard and also decided to ask Belvedere to coordinate with the plan. "Belvedere could be cut off on Tiburon Boulevard, too. We might need each other's services in an emergency," Councilman Fanning said.

BAY CONSERVATION — Agreed to support Assembly Bill 231 to extend beyond its upcoming expiration the power of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission grant or deny permits for fill and development on the bay.

There are about 450 species of the acacia plant.

Battlewagon New Jersey Put To Sea On Test

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The USS New Jersey sails into the Atlantic today after an 11-year sleep.

Passage of the warship through the Delaware River breakwater returns the battleship era once thought dead. The 45,000-ton battlewagon will undergo three days of builder's trials at sea.

Last August, the Department of Defense ordered the New Jersey out of the mothball fleet and prepared for service in Vietnam.

The New Jersey's nine 16-inch guns, capable of firing 2,900-pound armor-piercing shells a distance of 20 miles with an accuracy of 50 yards, were the reason for the recommissioning. The awsome fire power can blanket much of the narrow waist of North Vietnam and the Demilitarized Zone.

As the world's only active battleship, the New Jersey will head through the Panama Canal this summer if the Vietnam conflict continues and head across the Pacific into her third war.

By government decree the national sport in Argentina is pato, a rugged combination of basketball and polo played with a rawhide bag with two handles.

Paris Gold Rate Increases Again

PARIS (upi)—The gold price jumped still higher on the Paris bullion market today, reflecting the stepped up offensive against the dollar by President Charles de Gaulle's government.

The gold ingot, a 2.2 pound (one kilogram) bar of gold, closed at $1,282, or $40.38 an ounce. Yesterday's closing rate was $1,247, or $39.40 an ounce. Volume was $14.1 million compared with $11.6 yesterday.
